Guards Quell Riot Attempt By Red POWs

Tear Gas Used
To Beat Down
North Koreans

YONCHO ISLAND, Korea, Sunday, March 22 (AP) — United Nations guards quelled a threatening riot by nearly 4,000 screaming Communist Korean officer prisoners Thursday, the U. N. Prisoner of War Command announced today. One U. S. officer was injured by Reds throwing stones. Guards restored control with tear gas or vomiting gas. No gunfire was used, the command said.

The Yoncho camp was the scene of a riot March 7 during which guards killed 23 prisoners. The trouble began at 3:30 p.m. Thursday when Red officers in one compound refused to stand a routine count. The POW Command called it a "large-scale attempt at mob violence."

Normally, about 500 prisoners are in a single compound, with about 10 compounds to an enclosure.

"Prisoners of war in seven adjacent compounds ignored orders to remain inside their quarters, and came out in mass formation, screaming encouragement to the Red officer POWs," the announcement said.

The branch camp commander, Col. Gerald R. Momeyer of Erie, Pa., deployed his troops so they could use "nontoxic irritants" the Army's expression for tear gas and Adamsite, a gas that creates acute nausea and diarrhea and forced the POWs back into their quarters.

"Although a U. S. officer was slightly injured when he was struck with stones hurled by the POWs, Col. Momeyer decided that the uprising could be handled without the use of gunfire," the statement added.

"As U. N. troops regained control over the rioting POWs around them, the recalcitrant Red officer POWs submitted to the headcount and order was restored. The tally was then completed in the other seven compounds without further incident."

Yoncho is a small inlet just off the southwest shore of Koje Island. It is manned by both U. S. and North Korean guards.

Moscow Admits U. S., Britain Helped Win War

LONDON, March 21 (AP) — In a surprising switch of the old Soviet propaganda line, one of Moscow's best known commentators said the world today it was harmonious co-operation by the Soviet Union, the United States and Britain that produced victory in World War II.

For years the Russians have insisted that the war was won by the Red Army, while the "capitalist states" sat back and got rich. The broadcast, by Boris Leonov, immediately aroused the interest of Western diplomats in new statements made by Soviet leaders since the death of Stalin and the coming to power of Georgi Malenkov as Prime Minister.

Was it, they asked, part of a stern warning could be taken to the new Russian rulers are ready to ease up on the cold war with the West and come to some sort of terms? Or is it just a change of pace? For the most part, diplomats were inclined to wait for more definite, concrete news.

Only yesterday the British Foreign Office disclosed that Russian Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov had personally promised to help in the release of nine British prisoners and an Irish missionary held by the North Korean Reds.

Gasquering Man Buried In Dress

WAYNESBORO, Miss., March 21 (AP) — "Jennie Finkhart," the man who posed as a spinster for more than 30 years, was buried today wearing a bonnet and dress, the costume of his long masquerade.

California friends of "Jennie" — real name was John Hushler — held funeral director W. W. Freeman. "He would have wanted it that way. He was masculine in appearance but feminine in thinking."

The friends, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Harris of La Habra, Calif., said aged recluse, in his 80s, was friend of Mrs. Harris' mother in California years ago.

They said "Jennie" was a brilliant person who spoke five languages and held a degree from University of California.

ITALIAN FASCISTS ACT—Waving a large Italian flag, these pro-Fascist students demonstrate in a Rome street, protesting the bombing of a meeting in Trieste. The group attacked a Red newspaper office, and 12 people were injured before police broke up the gathering.

Bohlen Seems Assured Of Approval As Envoy

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP)—The fight of a Senate group against President Eisenhower's choice of an ambassador to Russia appeared to be all over but the last-minute speechmaking today as Sen. Taft opposed Sen. McCarthy's efforts to call Secretary of State Dulles for new questioning.

Man Accused Of Raping Girl Is Jailed Here

A 47-year-old Vienna, La., man, accused of the rape of an 8-year-old girl here Saturday afternoon, was lodged in the Ouachita Parish jail shortly after the offense was reported to officers.

The mother of the child notified authorities of the attack about 6 p. m. and furnished a description of the man. State police and Ouachita Parish officers made the arrest at a drive-in on Highway 80 about 8 p. m. Saturday.

Investigating officers said the man was reported to be a long-time acquaintance of the family in whose home he was visiting on Seventh Street here. The victim of the attack is one of seven children in the home.

Officers said the child's clothing was ripped from her body by her attacker. She was under treatment of a physician Saturday night but was not reported to be seriously injured.

Chinese Ground Attack Beaten Back By Allies

SEOUL, Sunday, March 22 (AP) — Two Chinese Red companies—about 350 troops—stormed an Allied observation post on the Western Front early today but U. N. defenders beat them off after 35 minutes of close-quarter fighting.

In the air war, U. S. Sabre jets by Fifth Air Force count shot down five Communist MIGs and damaged seven Saturday over North Korea.

The Chinese Red ground assault hit in the Bunker Hill sector, a sensitive spot in recent days. Supported by a barrage of mortar and small-arms fire, the Communists swept inside the outpost perimeter at midnight and a vicious fight at close quarters erupted.

Allied troops sent up illuminating flares so that they could tell friend from foe. The Chinese pulled back at 12:35 a.m.

Boat Runs Off And Leaves Fishermen

PORTLAND, Ore., March 21 (AP) — A sudden lurch threw four fishermen out of a boat near here today. They found themselves floundering in deep water while the boat chugged off.

One man still was aboard. Unfortunately, he was the one who did not know how to operate the boat.

In desperation LaVerne Flannery, 27, set out swimming to try to overtake the boat. He did it too. Allen Persinger, aboard the 18-foot boat in the Columbia River, managed to slow it down, and after a half mile, Flannery climbed aboard.

A tugboat rescued the others.

New Demand For Release Of Oatis Seen

U. S. Will Renew
Attempt To Free
Jailed Newsmen

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP)—Red Czechoslovakia's new bosses, taking power in a period of Kremlin peace gestures, are due to receive soon new demands for the release from prison of Associated Press Correspondent William N. Oatis.

U. S. officials said today that the Oatis case is the No. 1 problem between this country and Czechoslovakia and that Ambassador George Wadsworth is expected to press the new Prague government for a solution.

A different atmosphere may now surround the discussion with Czech officials. For one thing Antonin Zapotocky has succeeded the late Klement Gottwald as president of Czechoslovakia. For another the Communist high command in Moscow appears to be embarked upon a peace offensive, involving moves of calculated friendliness towards the West.

Whether the aim of this Kremlin operation is really to reduce cold war tensions or, as some authorities suspect, to split the Western Powers remains to be seen. There is no denying, however, that the Soviet government under Premier Georgi Malenkov is embarked upon some kind of new maneuver, and it could have an important bearing on Soviet and satellite handling of such matters as the imprisonment of Oatis.

Officials here were interested in the announcement yesterday that Moscow had promised Britain to try to obtain the release of 10 civilians imprisoned in North Korea for nearly three years. Earlier Soviet authorities in Germany had given a mild response to British protests over the recent shooting down of a British plane by a Soviet fighter.

The specific Soviet moves followed Malenkov's statements of the past two weeks that Soviet foreign policy would seek to maintain peace and that all questions outstanding between Russia and other nations, including the United States, were susceptible of peaceful solutions.

One Killed As Tornado Strikes Minnesota Town

(By The Associated Press)

A tornado whalloped St. Cloud, Minn., Saturday, killing one person and causing extensive damage in a one-block area. The twister was part of a storm formation that hopped along a 200-mile path through lower Minnesota.

The ominous funnel dipped and receded along a path from Fairmont, near the Iowa border on the south, northward to St. Cloud, causing damage at Fairmont, Fairfax, Gibbon, Young America and Sedan.

Roger Linderth, 16, was killed when a St. Cloud building where he worked collapsed.

In Illinois, state police blamed a 55-mile-an-hour gust for the traffic death of a motorcyclist at Canton. They said 26-year-old Jesse Daley's machine was thrown out of control by the wind, causing him to crash into a tree.

100,000 Refugees Flee

BERLIN, March 21 (AP)—A total of 100,615 refugees from Communism have escaped through the Iron Curtain to West Berlin so far this year, officials said Saturday.

Agents Seek Evidence Of Germ Warfare

Sabotage Of Animals Possibility

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP)—An unprecedented outbreak of animal disease in the past 15 months has caused experts to look for evidence that germ warfare is being waged against U. S. farmers.

Dr. B. T. Simms, chief of the Agriculture Department's Bureau of Animal Husbandry, said Saturday, "There is no evidence at all" of such activity thus far.

"Of course, we have thought of the possibility and are watching it closely," Simms said, adding that field workers have been alerted.

Scientists and veterinarians have had multiple headaches during the past 15 months as both old and new animal and poultry ailments cropped up in almost every section of the country. "We've never had a time when so many came along one right after the other," Simms said.

Causes and remedy of some are still unknown. Simms said some, which have yet to hit large numbers of animals, present potential threats unless farmers are awakened. He hinted that BAH will need more money for adequate research.

Among the diseases are: Air-Sac—A recently discovered poultry virus. It kills about six per cent of all broilers annually. Losses are as high as 10 million birds a year in the Delaware, Maryland and Virginia area alone. Research contracts totaling $170,000 have been let to study air-sac.

Vesicular Exanthema—A virus affecting swine. It was confined to California until last summer. Now

Red Ink Is Erased By Taxpayers

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP)—Taxpayers who pumped their dollars into the Treasury in a last minute rush to meet the March 15 income tax deadline thus far have lowered the government's deficit by about $2.5 billion.

The counting still hasn't ended. Collections in the first three days of the week totaled $3,722,477,740. Some of this was offset by spending, however, so not all went to wash away some of the government's red ink.

The deficit on Wednesday, the latest report, was $8,590,582,548. Before March 15, it stood at $11,034,818,944.

The figures showed more tax money was counted last Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, than any other similar three day period. None, however, was as high as the March 18, 1952, single-day record of $1,779,000,000.

The deficit probably will fall by another $2 billion this month, as more and more of the March 15 collections are counted.

The official estimate for the government's fiscal 1953 deficit is still the $5.9 billion outlined in former President Truman's budget last January.

Speed Trap Catches Atlanta Pedestrian

ATLANTA, March 21 (AP)—Atlanta's electrically-timed speed trap caught a pedestrian last night.

Motorcycle Patrolmen G. W. Sanders and M. J. McFayden were timing cars near the downtown section when they noticed a pedestrian with loops of wire on his arm.

The wire was from the traffic timer. Officers said Oliver Beazey, 78, told them he saw the wire lying along the street and thought it had been discarded.

But they hooked him on charges of being drunk, destroying city property and attempted larceny of city property.

Steps Ordered Taken To Free 3 Americans

Boat Was Flying
U. S. Flag When Taken By Reds

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP)—The State Department Saturday ordered American officials in Hong Kong to take all "possible steps" to obtain the release of three Americans reported captured by Chinese Reds while aboard an American yacht.

A Chinese Communist gunboat is reported to have captured the yacht flying the U. S. flag, and it appeared that three Americans were aboard.

Julian F. Harrington, U. S. Consul General at Hong Kong, reported to the State Department that British Navy officers had seen a yacht flying the American flag being towed by a Chinese gunboat.

The State Department immediately dispatched instructions to Harrington to obtain the release of the Americans.

Harrington told the State Department the yacht was intercepted by the Communist vessel about 4:30 p.m. Saturday (Hong Kong time) and was last seen at 5:35 p.m.

He said it was being taken to Lap Sap Mel, a Chinese Red island between Hong Kong and Macao, a Portuguese colony.

Those aboard the yacht were believed to be former United Press War Correspondent Richard Applegate, 37, who owned the yacht; Don Dixon, 25, International News Service war correspondent who arrived in Hong Kong last week from Korea on a vacation, and Capt. Ben Krasner, 30.

"Harrington said the yacht was believed to be the Kert, a power sail boat owned and sailed by Richard Applegate," a State Department spokesman said.

"Applegate was reported to have started for Macao early Saturday morning against the advice of Hong Kong yacht club officials."

Traffic Plan Is To Be Put Into Effect Monday

Starting Monday, a new traffic plan for the effecting of more safety of school children will be tried out at St. Matthew's Parochial School. When parents come in their cars to bring children to school, and likewise at the end of the day, they are asked to drive into the parking lot of the church and school on Jackson Street, where children will be able to load or unload as the case may be.

After this, the cars will proceed through the alley to the street.

Mrs. J. C. Marsh, author of the plan, has received complete approval by police and traffic officers of the city of Monroe and it is expected to aid in relieving a traffic jam and also possibly to save from serious accidents.

Ex-War Correspondents Reported Aboard Vessel

HONG KONG, March 21 (AP)—A Chinese Communist gunboat captured a yacht flying the U. S. flag Saturday, and it appeared certain three Americans were aboard.

Two former Korean war correspondents and a veteran sea captain who had run the nationalist blockade to China had set sail for the nearby Portuguese colony of Macao a few hours before in a 42-foot yacht of the same description.

It was believed there also were aboard at least two and possibly three Chinese crewmen and there also may be one Chinese girl as a passenger.

The girl left her Kowloon home this morning with Krasner and other residents of the house said they were "talking about going to Macao." They were not able to supply the girl's name.

The three were former United Press war correspondent Richard Applegate, 37, who owned the yacht; Don Dixon, 25, International News Service war correspondent who arrived here last week from Korea on a vacation trip and Capt. Ben Krasner, 30.

The British Navy said Applegate had started to sail for Macao on the Chinese mainland early in the morning in his 42-foot steel-bottomed yacht the Kert. A vessel believed to be the Kert was sighted being towed by a Chinese gunboat into Lap Sap Mel Island, five miles southwest of Hong Kong.

The Navy said a large sailing craft flying the American flag was intercepted by the gunboat, five miles west of the western tip of Lantau Island on the route to Molao.

Scheduled steamships between Hong Kong and Macao make runs along this same route as do some unscheduled freight-carrying motorized junks. But private craft seldom venture into these waters.

It was known the three men left the foreign correspondents' club Saturday morning, planning to sail to Macao along the route from Castle Peak in the western part of Hong Kong.

Jes' Ramblin'

With the official return of spring the past week, suddenly many youngsters became allergic to classrooms and books. One school alone reported 19 absences, and not for measles, mumps, chicken pox or other diseases as the cause. Visiting teachers found their services much in demand. One of these, in scouting around the city, observed one of the absentees perched blithely near the top of a towering tree.

"Willie, what on earth are you doing up there?" she ejaculated.

"Well, 'er, 'er, I just did not feel well this morning," he explained.

"But you seem able to climb a tree pretty nimbly," the teacher added, "how do you feel now?"

"I-I feel just a little better now," he stammered.

"Well, that you are back in school tomorrow."

"Climbing trees is no remedy for a boy who is not well enough to go to school."

Demos Said Giving Ike Most Support

ST. LOUIS, March 21 (AP)—Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) today said the Democrats in Washington are giving more support to President Eisenhower than his own Republican party.

"That shows we are Americans," said the junior Missouri senator as he spoke at a "kick off" city campaign breakfast held by the Democratic Central Committee.

"I supported everyone of the things our President wanted except one," Symington said, "And I just couldn't support that fellow Cole." (The reference was to Albert M. Cole, new federal housing administrator.)

Official Raps Theft Charges Against Cops

NEW ORLEANS, March 21 (AP)—Police Supt. Joseph Scheuerling today criticized published reports which linked city detectives with recent burglaries involving about $300,000. He said the reports were based on rumors.

An investigation "has failed to develop a thing whatsoever" against the detectives, Scheuerling said. He added "there is no evidence whatever that the report of the $300,000 in burglaries is accurate."

Scheuerling issued a lengthy statement after conferring with Detective Chief Harry Daniels and Police Captains John J. Jackson Jr. and John Becker. Scheuerling described the statement as "the situation up to this point."

Meanwhile, police continued a search for Willie Dupont, missing parolee wanted for questioning in connection with the burglaries.

Dupont, missing since March 10 when he was scheduled to appear for trial on a narcotics charge, reportedly told police of unsolved robberies.

Scheuerling said that "a complete report" will be furnished to Orleans Parish District Attorney Severn Darden Monday "to act upon as he chooses."

District Judge George P. Platt, in charge of the present grand jury, demanded and received from the police department the names of the detectives allegedly involved in the thefts.

The detectives' names were not made available.

Earlier Daniels said "I think this thing is going to peter out to nothing."

The names of the victims in the alleged burglaries were not mentioned in earlier reports.

Family Of Ten Is Killed In Wreck On N. J. Highway

WASHINGTON, N. J., March 21 (AP)—The bodies of 10 members of a single family lay side by side in a mortuary Saturday while relatives arranged for a mass funeral.

The automobile crash that killed them was the worst of its kind on record. The National Safety Council in Chicago said that never before had so many persons riding in a single automobile been killed in a traffic accident.

The victims were Clarence Matlock, 33, a dairy farmer, his five children, his wife, a mother and two of his sisters—all killed when a new auto in which they were driving from their home near Blairstown, N. J., to Washington collided with a trailer truck.

At nearby Fort Murray, N. J., the truck driver, John J. Scaramino, 21, of Scranton, Pa., was arraigned on a charge of causing death by automobile.

Magistrate Roger Buechler ordered him held in default of $5,000 bail to await grand jury action.

All of the family were killed instantly except little Raymond Matlock, who died at a hospital early Saturday—on his eighth birthday.

He Who Laughs Last

GREEN BAY, Wis., March 21 (AP)—Bernard Loch, a tavernkeeper here, is something of a practical joker. He put a sign in the tavern window saying "We will pay $10 for 1947 pennies."

Get it? That's $10 for one thousand, nine hundred and forty-seven pennies, or $18.47 in coppers.

But Loch forgot to explain the joke to his bartender.

Now Loch's out $20 and has only two 1947 pennies to show for it.

Home Is What You Make It

It has been said that 1953 will be a boom year in the construction of new homes all across the expanse of this great land. All kind of homes will probably go up, houses of one and more stories and of many various sizes and shapes. There will be great colonial mansions, though these will be in the very small minority due to the income tax structure and the high cost of building homes these days. There will be smaller homes built along the modern lines and built for convenience. Beside the new homes, there are countless thousands of dwellings already constructed and even more apartments which house the millions of American people.

The size and beauty of a home does not always mean that it is a happy one. A house, it is said, has character. A person can almost look at a house and tell whether or not it is a house of sadness where there is no family love and companionship or a house of joy where everyone is happy and family love and cohesion is abundant. There are so many of both kinds in this nation. There are so many of both kind even in these Twin Cities. All the riches, the new gadgets, the modern fixtures cannot make a house a happy home unless the people who dwell therein do not contribute to its personality.

How many times have you driven by houses at twilight, seen the warm glow of the interior seemingly radiate happiness, seen the joyful occupants inside going about their lives in a secure, comfortable appearance? These are not necessarily large homes. Quite often, they are small homes, maybe even needing a coat of paint and the replacement of some shingles, but in many cases, these are happier homes than some of the large ones, so large that their occupants have forgotten how to live together as a family.

Houses get that large, you know. Quite often, you will ride by a large and beautiful home also shining in the glory of its happy occupants.

Houses, whether you realize it or not, never fail to reflect the feelings of their occupants. Is there anything so pathetic as a house which is all closed up with a "for sale" sign on the outside? Is there anything happier than a house with a moving van pulled up, the furniture men unloading the cargo with the noise of happy children making a minute inspection of their new home. It is times such as these which seem to make one feel that the house is glowing with joy. Is there anything sadder than a house with a black wreath on the door showing that one of its members will no longer physically dwell within? Certainly, there is nothing happier than the house which greets the new baby as daddy proudly brings the new member inside.

So, you see, houses do have personalities.

Unfortunately, many houses in this nation are seeing their families split up and depart, putting the familiar "for sale" sign in the front yard. Quite often, these people have never actually tried to make a home for themselves. They use a house to sleep in and in which to hang their clothes. This is not a home, it is a stopping place on the road to marital disaster. More often, the little children who are the ones around which a home is built and who many times make a home what it is, suffer.

If you don't regard your house as "home," it is certain that your child does. On a cold winter's night, he looks at the four secure walls, the strong ceiling, the fireplace, his daddy and mother, and feels a sense of security seldom felt by any adult. Home is his fort, his castle. Would you destroy it? Some people would. Sometimes, when death strikes home can become of even greater importance to the members of the family who need the strong four walls of their house to bind them together in their grief. Has the house ever failed in this case? Has the feeling that whoever passed on still remains, ever diminished.

You know it hasn't. Houses have a way of never forgetting. No matter how old and dilapidated a house may become, it is still a mirror of all which has happened within its walls. All the happiness, the joy, the trials, the errors, the sadness, they are all there. The house seems to shout, "Look at me, I've known joy even though I may not look that way now. Give me another chance." Isn't it true that more than often, it is this kind of a house which a young couple pick and give that chance?

So, you see, houses really are alive. Though they are only made of wood, brick, nails and mortar, they are vibrant with their individualism. Your house reflects your feelings. Your home is as happy as you make it. Have you ever thought about taking a look?

An Idea Against This Community

The Shreveport Journal carried an editorial in its issue of March 18th agreeing with the editorial suggestion of the Daily Enterprise of Bastrop which would have a new arterial highway from Vicksburg to Shreveport carrying most of the commerce between these two points and carefully leaving the Twin Cities out of the deal. The Enterprise naturally is not without its own carefully planned ideas concerning this deal as such a highway would greatly benefit him and his community while it would obviously hurt these cities.

Its idea for the highway would have the new road leaving U. S. 80 at Tallulah, going all the way up to Lake Providence, West to Oak Grove, Mer Rouge, Bastrop, Farmerville, Bernice, Homer and Minden where the new road would join U. S. 80 into Shreveport. All of this would of course, be nice for Bastrop. The Bastrop paper claims that another nice aspect of the road is that it would "miss the heavy traffic of Monroe."

Perhaps this Bastrop publisher needs to be enlightened to the situation as should the Journal, which sees this proposed idea as a beneficiary to Shreveport. The Louisiana highway department has earmarked new sums of money for the present U. S. 80 and last year, spent some 27 million dollars on that road. U. S. 80 is the shortest possible link between Vicksburg and Shreveport and is a major U. S. Highway spanning the continent from Savannah, Georgia, all the way to San Diego, California. Should the state decide to reroute a link from Vicksburg to Shreveport going north all the way to Lake Providence, and should this route supercede U. S. 80, most of the intercontinental traffic which now goes through North Louisiana, will drop to U. S. 90 in South Louisiana.

U. S. 80 through Louisiana is at present a somewhat dangerous road owing to the various improvements which it is at present undergoing but when the road is completed, the only dangers will come from the motorists themselves. There are some plans in the wind to build a toll road spanning the state somewhere along the present route of U. S. 80, but nothing has as yet been decided. When the highway department is finished with the present construction along the present road, the dangers which exist should be relieved.

The Enterprise suggests that the many hills and curves on "80" are also dangerous. That is entirely correct. Does the Bastrop Publisher propose to use a huge bulldozer and level all the hills in and around Bastrop? The Enterprise says further that tourists from Vicksburg go all the way to Lake Providence and then over to Shreveport. Does it have figures to prove this somewhat improbable idea? The Paper maintains that many drivers use the present route 11 from Bastrop along the "northern route" into Minden and Shreveport. It maintains that this route is safer and "faster" than the present U. S. 80. If this is the case, what is the Enterprise complaining about?

This newspaper is certainly not going to attempt to dictate the routes of tourists and state travelers but it fervently believes that it is correct in maintaining that drivers will generally use the shortest route between two points and as such, there is no sense in spending money on a new highway which is far out of the way when even the Bastrop publisher says that the road is at present, safe and "fast". Should plans be started to build a new trunk toll road spanning the state from Vicksburg to Shreveport, the shortest route between these two cities is not north to Bastrop, but slightly south of Monroe and West Monroe.

The Shreveport Journal apparently printed this editorial without due consideration of the highway system and it apparently decided also not to consider the people of Delhi, Rayville, Monroe, West Monroe, Ruston and Arcadia in its own article. It is also naturally hoping that Shreveport will benefit from this deal without taking into consideration that should a route, so far out of the way and "off the track", be built, the southern highway, U. S. 90 will probably receive a major share of the travel.

Perhaps if the state decides to build a truck toll road across the state, it might consider leaving Shreveport out of the path. The traffic situation in Shreveport is much worse than any in these two communities.

This newspaper is not hoping to see any prospective improvements cut out of the highways along the northern tier of parishes and if improvements are necessary, they ought to be made. However, it does not believe that there is a necessity for three major arteries spanning the state. U. S. 80 is the best and shortest route and as such, should be maintained. Should any toll roads or superhighways be constructed, they should take the shortest route possible, thus cutting expenses. No one will or should deny good roads to Northern Louisiana but it is necessary to face reality.

Neither the Shreveport Journal nor the Bastrop Publisher has succeeded in doing this.

A Major Change In America's Sport

Last week in St. Petersburg, Florida, major league baseball made history. For the first time in half a century, there has been made a great change in the starting lineup of the usual eight senior circuit teams. The Boston Braves, the near ruin of Brooklyn penant hopes last year, have moved to a new home. The Braves will be no longer, "the Boston Braves," they will be the "Milwaukee Braves" and will operate out of that community. This is a historic move in the majors and resulted due to the fact that the Boston owner could not make ends meet and lost money in that city for the past several seasons. The people of Milwaukee are so baseball minded that they just finished a new five million dollar stadium which will be the home of their new team. Season tickets are already on sale there. The Braves owned the Milwaukee "farm" team and moved that franchise to Toledo, Ohio which had no team due to the fact that their club moved to Charleston, West Virginia.

This came after the St. Louis Browns had tried to have its American league franchise moved to Baltimore. It was planned to name the St. Louis team after one of America's most famous teams of early baseball history, the "Orioles." However, the American League club owners decided against this move claiming that it was "too late in the season." It is probable that Baltimore will have to wait until next year if ever for the resurrection of the Orioles.

In any case, the National League change has certainly started the baseball fans all across the nation wondering how the new club will make out in its infancy in the "national pastime." The Milwaukee fans are naturally jubilant over the idea of having "joined the majors" and a great civic reception is apparently being planned upon the team's arrival. There was a regular holiday in the "beer" town when the news came up from St. Petersburg and although the stores didn't close, there was great celebration in the hearts of all "true blue" ball fans who never in their wildest dreams believed that they could claim a major league team as their own.

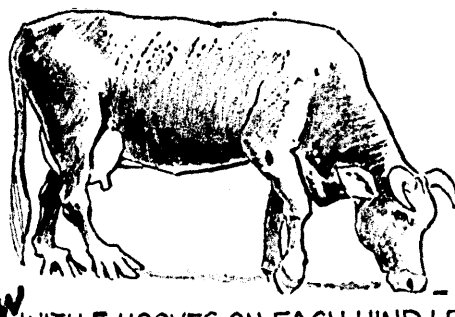

Now that the ice has been broken, there might be some more changes. It is apparent that the St. Louis club cannot make ends meet in that locality and will have to seek other locations if not ending up in Baltimore. There is one change which probably will never be made and that one is in Brooklyn. The Dodgers can be counted upon to remain in "Flatbush" the rest of their days. No matter how miserably they fail in gaining the world championship, they are still "dem Bums" to all loyal Brooklyn fans and it is certain that there is no more solid a ball fan than in Brooklyn. Now, the Braves are out west. One Brooklyn fan, remembering the playoffs in the '51 season, tersely remarked that "it's too bad they didn't keep going west where we could forget 'em." In any case, the majors have made a change, Milwaukee has a new team and America is preparing to see the opening of the 1953 baseball season.

Spring is really here.

Man Playing the Typewriter

Irony tragedy of Vivien Leigh's breakdown. Her Oscar-winning role in "Street Car" depicted an emotional collapse. That Cole Porter guy! He gets a $2,000 fee for a larger advert and rushes it to the Runyon Fund. Sid Skolsky (doing a word-sketch of John Wayne) punches: "He insists he don't snore." You doesn't say, Sidney! ... Me and My Big Mouth: In the sleepy haste of yesterday's col'm I reported checks would be sent to the widows of cops and firemen "in the morning." Instead of first discussing allocations (as agreed) with both Commissioners and the Bravest & Finest Committee ... Donald O'Connor hit the publicity jackpot with prose sketches in four news-mags. Tattered little Blondie Denise Darcel masquerades as boy in her upcoming "Flame of Calcutta" flicker ... Ooh, sure.

Memo to "The Big Story" teevy producers: Kindly change the Lepke Surrender fadeout showing me smiling at Girl Friday. After hearing the radio flash that he cooked in the chair ... Just show the actor playing the colymist role tearing up matches and staring at the table. That's the way it was, anyway ... What a tremendous job concealing Disney's "Peter Pan" epic. Over 500,000 separate drawings made possible the animated wonder. Jane Russell's recording of "Wrong Kind of Love" is so elegant for platter-pilots ... "Caine Mutiny" (the Best-Seller veteran) has been among the upper-bracketeers for almost 2 years. (Happy Royalties!) ... Dollywood's Jean Simmons' remark: "Not all men ring bells with me" ... Ding-Ding.

Hooraay for Constance Bennett for tweaking the blue-noses of Boston censors. "The Children's Hour" show is banned there while girlesk flourishes all over Bean town ... The revival of the be-guiling ballad "The Nearness of You" brings us back to 1936. When it was part of the score of "Wake Up and Live," another Mack Gordon-Harry Revel swelldy ... Or am I getting daff, as the gals from Britain (in the Latin Quarter Scot number) say. What a rollicking drum number it is. British gals in kilts and Yankee Doodle dolls in practically skin ... Uncle Sam can relax. Gov't officials cautioned us that the Congressional Medal of Honor men (visiting Our Town for the "Bravest & Finest" frolic Monday night for 3 days and 3 nights) must "not be exploited in any way," etc. ... Nobody did and all of the lads hated leaving town, so hospitable were the New Yorkers.

The top hotels begged to have them ... Walters at the Stork, LaIn, Q, Copa, Howie's, Lindy's, Reuben's, Dubrow's (and so on) refused tips ... Every hero conducted himself impeccably ... Many of them are very poor ... Most of them are called upon (by Gov't) to leave jobs, businesses, families, etc. to fly here, there and everywhere ... To help sell Defense Bonds ... appear at Blood Bank rallies, etc. ... Didja know the highest decoration the nation can bestow (The Congressional Medal of Honor) must never be abbreviated? ... So Charlie (Commando) Kelly told me last night studios are stalling production of films awaiting public reaction to the 3-D cinema. Result: Unemployment ... Stardust Joanne Gilbert's $50 check just came in from dreds of kids ... A 3-star General assisted ... They occupied all those seats paid for by folks who couldn't be there but wanted to swell the fund. Dagmar is a funny guy in the ad-lib dept. When informed Eva Gabor said (over her Glass Hat mikes) that Dag was one of her guests the previous midnight and "dot two of poor little me wood make vun of her!" Dagmar flipped: "Her whole family wouldn't make one of me, sweedy-pie!" ... At Billingsley's buffet (for the Congressional Medal of Honor men) one of them teased her: "To which she got a howl with: 'But after all, what is a man? A man is nothing but an old boy'." ... Historian Gerald W. Johnson's comment: "Anyone who deals with the word, spoken or written, is handling dynamite, and all of us who live by the word are a little crazy. The best we can do is walk gingerly and hope that we may not drop anything where it will go off."

At the St. Regis Roof tonight the highlight of the "What's New?" dinner (for the Overseas Press Club bldg fund) will be a panel discussion of the Korean situation by Ambass. Yung, Ed. Murrow, Frank Conniff, Maggie Higgins and Hal Boyle ... Communist Tito gets the red-carpet treatment in London. In Int'l affairs Devils wear halos. When they are Allies ... Sen. Taft's definite-maybe-perhaps comment, after the Reds shot down an American plane over Germany: "The situation could be extremely serious — or it could not be" ... Making everything as clear as Mr. Republican ... The "All-Star Revue" quits the coaxial circuit soon, although its latest Nielsen is a hefty 42.3 ... Like we've argued (even when we led the surveys): How is the product selling? Because when it doesn't — they Always Get Another Boy!

Well, whaddayaknow? Looks like these telegrams from folks who paid $1,000, $500, $25 and $2 per seat for Monday night's "Bravest & Finest" Garden show ... Salut-ing Mr. and Mrs. Show Business for the "Best Yet!" ... Brenda K? (tizzaat you Mrs. Kelly?) ... Well, honey, thanks seeds for the party-cake to the gang ... Let's put it in the paper, maybe they will see it ... We made a few boners ... When we laid out the house I said: "Keep the prices down! For un-rich folks" ... But to everyone's amazement Mr. and Mrs. N. Y. demanded $10 seats (and higher) after they had been sold ... "We don't want cheap seats!" they said, "It's not a charity, it's a bargain!" ... 3 days of torrential rains didn't help the box office sale ... Although on the day a rap for all benefits was published, the sale was the biggest ... The Kings, Queens and Aces of Show Biz surmounted other obstacles: Income Tax Day and TV's stiffest competition, the "I Love Lucy" Monday-nighter ... Variety's headline: "Cops-Firemen Benefit Socko $30,000." Sh! We're still counting. It'll be closer to 65.

The galloping tempo of the "Wild Horses" ditty (oh, you Comm!) is based on a theme from one of Robert Schumann's classics. (Perry's is Top Clicks) ... Movie studios are stalling production of films awaiting public reaction to the 3-D cinema. Result: Unemployment ... Stardust Joanne Gilbert's $50 check just came in from the coast for the cops-firemen event ... Betty Grable's defense of M. Monroe has locals nodding in agreement. Betty declares Marilyn's critics (over the sexy publicity) "are just jealous" ... (Tro!) ... "Blues on the River" is a razzle-dazzler. Dixieland-style tootling ... April 18th (it says here) will be the date for the first teevy shows from Miami. When we'll be in Girltown ... Jo Stafford's "Smoking My Sad Cigarette" is a bloozy-doozy ... Tennessee Williams' new drama, "Camino Real," is the result of 2 years' effort. Writing can be tougher than ditch-digging ... Add surefire bonanzas: The soon-toe Martin & Lewis 3-D movie, "Money From Home" ... Don't you like the ditty named "Kiss"? Yez don't? ... (You all right Brother?) ... Yvonne De Carlo's proclamation: "Actors don't know what to talk about when they go out with the girls." Why talk?

The audiences at "Children's Hour" are the Best in Town. 40 women to every man ... Of 31 members of the October Central Comm. (chosen in Aug. 1917 — They directed the Revolution) Stalin was last to die. No others survive ... John O'Donnell's column reported that when Zangara killed Cermak (in Miami) and tried to shoot FDR, "not one N. Y. newspaper reporter or syndicate writer was on the scene" ... Mr. O'Donnell forgot, but Damon Runyon and Sidney Skolsky got to the jail-house (with the other scribes in Miami) after they scooped the field with an exclusive interview with the assassin right in his cell ... Sieve Hannagan used to get a howl describing what happened when they were locked in the cell-door elevator-yelling at you to get them in. The sheriff asked: "Are you dead-panned people?" and you dead-panned: "Never saw them before in my life!"

Lois Andrews made an adventurous trip from L. A. to Hawaii. Told members of the crew you had always been good to her, that you always gave her the best of it. "Fellow Reporter" (is the signature) adds: "She certainly is a charming person." ... You all came over fine on Eva Gabor's new Glass Hat mikes. They are calling Eva "The Hungarian Rhapsody" ... It's a little ditty for the Wm. Dials of "S. Pacific." Presby. Hosp. Eugene Dennis, Comm'y Party chief (now serving 5 for subversive conspiracy), went under surgery at the Atlanta pen. His bladder had itself removed.

Lux Video Theater will feature "One for the Road," starring Pat O'Brien, on the Mar. 23rd stanza. It's the first show by Mirror staffer Seymour Stern on the night side. Acton takes place in the 17th Pct. (E. 51st) and they wonder if you will pop on stage for a second just to ask the reporters: "What's doing?" Pat plays an old fading, ill-reporter on "The Way Down." The feeling is that a pat on Pat's back (from you) urging him to take it easy—would be peachy ... Soooo? ... Oyez. Lux'll give the Runyon Fund a nice check. Insiders say that "Hazel Flagg," which is "across the street" from Roz Russell's big hit at the Winter Garden, is getting all of "Wonderful Town's" terrific turn-away biz. Lindy's, Gallagher's and Ruby Foo's, especially, are in for a prosperous run, too. Because that area will soon be the musical comedy hit sector. What with "Wonderful," "Flagg" and the Queen of Them All, "S. Pacific," moving to the Broadway, near 53rd St.

HOLLYWOOD (—NEA)— Exclusively Yours: They're still holding a reservation for Mr. and Mrs. Dean Martin on the June 3 sailing of the Queen Elizabeth to London and Dean's predicting: "We'll be back together."

Admitting reconciliation talks with his estranged wife, Dean told me: "She's a wonderful girl and I love her. There's a little stubbornness on the part of both of us, but I'm sure we'll be back together."

Latest Martin and Lewis comedy, "Money From Home," is in 3-D and Jerry's telling everyone: "In three dimensions I look handsome and Dean looks awful."

Stage Producer Al Rosen must mean it about starring Christine Jorgenson in a play. Rosen offered the leading-man role to John Hubbard but Hubbard told me on the set of U-I's "Walking My Baby Back Home":

"I don't think I'll take it. I'm an ex-G.I. and I wouldn't be comfortable making love to another ex-G.I."

And mark down that quote as the best of the year.

Vivien Leigh may be barring visitors from the set of "Elephant Walk" because "they interfere with my acting," but there were no temperamental clashes between the British film queen and Dana Andrews during a five-week location trip to Ceylon. Defending Vivien, Dana told me: "She's very vivacious. A girl who never lets up. And she has a pizle sense of humor, but I can't tell about that because it's not printable."

Dana's still a TV holdout—"I'm a motion picture actor"—but he's beaming over his syndicated radio show, "I Was a Communist for the FBI."

"I can't believe the checks I'm getting. I'm making more money out of the radio show than from movies," Dana declares. HEY, men! Do your wives buy an evening gown, wear it once and then wait. "Oh, I couldn't wear that again. Everyone has seen it."

They do, huh? Okay, here's a flat that may save you money. Dinah Shore doesn't mind old who whisper, "Look, Dinah's wearing that dress again," when 2 million people are watching her on TV, or at an intimate Hollywood party.

"It doesn't bother me like it does most women," says Dinah. "If I've had fun in a dress I wear it again and again."

Dinah's havin' fun, in gown she's worn before, in the second season of her twice-weekly TV show and hailing Director Alan Hanley's production genius. "He hasn't run out of ideas," she can't never will. He's fantastic.

Her five-year-old daughter Melissa is having fun, too. Melinda Dinah with a dance routine in the after show for the studio audience. "I don't do a single anymore," Dinah laughed. "Melissa is in the act."

Her explanation of why her last movie, "Aaron Slick of Pumpkin Creek," with Alan Young, flopped at the box office: "It wasn't a very good picture and I'm a girl of conservative statements."

All Claudette Colbert and Dan Joel Pressman have to do is deny it, but the mingles along the Riviera are linking her name with British star Anton Walbrook. Dan Dailey's howling over deductions that his Fox bosses are taking out of his weekly paycheck. Rita Hayworth, her pals tell me, has staked out claim to the role of the night-club singer in "From Here to Eternity" and is sure to get it.

ANN SOTIERN has the best argument of them all in favor of film over live television. Her new and hilarious, "Private Secretary" series is on film but every day the postman brings hundreds of letters from people who write: "Please send me a pair of tickets to your show. We'd like to see you in person."

"How about that?" film-minder Ann is chuckling. "I'm on film but people think it's a live, spontaneous show. They don't know we can't tell the difference."

Ann's situation-comedy stanza presents her as a sexy office whiz and already are giving "I Love Lucy" competition in the rating charts.

U. S. Asks If Red Peace Talk Just 'Empty Words'

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., March 21 (AP) — U. S. Ambassador Ernest A. Gross asked the Russians today whether the peace declarations of Prime Minister Malenkov are "empty words." He called once more on the new Soviet leader to show his sincerity and work for peace "in the name of humanity."

In a move from a neutral quarter to see whether the Russians really mean peace, L. N. Palar, Indonesian delegate who has steered a careful middle course in the East-West cold war, proposed formally that the 60-nation U. N. Political Committee take up immediately a Polish proposal wrapping up Moscow's peace plan for Korea and other problems.

The committee adjourned until Monday so delegates could go into a huddle on this surprise move but Russia may oppose it because Chief Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky will not return until Thursday.

Palar begged the delegates to take advantage of what seemed to be the right atmosphere for action and not go home from the Assembly "empty-handed."

The committee approved 50-5 a Western resolution to continue the U. N. Disarmament Commission and to endorse its work. Gross and the Soviet Delegate Valerian A. Zorin, voted together on one paragraph calling for the commission to continue but split as usual on the endorsement of the commission work.

Gross lost no time telling the committee he had been disappointed that Zorin dismissed as "artificial" Gross' questions last Wednesday in which the American delegate asked: "Is Russia ready now for constructive efforts to break the deadlock on disarmament and is the U. N. the proper forum for such efforts?"

Gross said the delegates must place their hopes for peace above the disappointments such as he had suffered and added: "We must say to the Soviet delegate surely this is not your last word on the subject; surely you would not have us believe that the words of Premier Malenkov were empty words and that the Soviet Union is determined to use the United Nations merely to gain a tactical military or strategic advantage through trick schemes which are labeled disarmament, but which are really designed to strip free nations of their defenses."

"If the Soviet government truly desires peace, will it not in the name of humanity and in the interest of its own people seek the authority through the delegate here to work side by side with us toward a program to effect disarmament which we can all accept, a program which can provide security for us all and a new hope of mankind?"

Zorin had told Gross that the Soviet Union had worked for peace and arms limitation in the U. N. and would continue to do so but Gross said he had heard nothing from the Soviet Union that showed a true purpose toward reaching a solution on this problem.

Just before Gross spoke, Zorin said the best way to achieve peace was along the lines Russia has been urging for seven years—by a decision for the immediate reduction of armaments and prohibition of atomic weapons.

Some delegates speculated that he was unusually mild in comparison to some assaults he had made on the U. S. on this subject.

Zorin appealed to the committee to approve his resolution criticizing the commission for allegedly trying to get military intelligence data for the Western Powers and directing the commission to give priority to the Soviet proposals for arms limitation. The vote against him was 5 in favor (Soviet bloc), 41 against and 13 abstaining.

ELECTED VICE-PRESIDENT — C. K. McClure has been elected vice-president of the Dunham-Pugh Company, Inc., at a board of directors' meeting in Baton Rouge. He has served with the company since 1943.

Name McClure Dunham-Pugh Vice President

C. K. McClure, prominent Monroe citizen, was elected vice-president of Dunham-Pugh Company, Inc., at a recent meeting of the company's board of directors in Baton Rouge.

Dunham-Pugh Company, Inc., is a Louisiana Distributor of heavy construction equipment. As vice-president, McClure will have complete charge of the company's operations in Northern Louisiana, encompassing 20 parishes.

McClure joined Dunham-Pugh Company in November, 1943, as a sales representative in the Baton Rouge area. He advanced to assistant sales manager in 1944 and was appointed branch manager of the Monroe plant when the latter was opened in July, 1945. He became sales manager, in which position he served until the recent promotion. He will continue to be located at the corporation's Monroe offices at 3111 Louisville Avenue. Other offices of the company are in Baton Rouge and New Orleans.

Ellender Warns States To Accept Three-Mile Limit

WASHINGTON, March 21—U. S. Sen. Allen J. Ellender warned backers of state ownership of the submerged lands beyond our state's historical boundary, "tidelands" Saturday to settle for title to submerged lands out to historic state boundaries or face outright defeat.

The Louisiana Democrat urged state ownership forces to demands that coastal states share in oil revenues from submerged lands on the continental shelf seaward of the historic boundaries. He said unless President Eisenhower is given a bill he can sign at this session "our cause has been perhaps permanently lost."

"In all probability, we will have to content this year with enactment of the Holland Bill, and look to the future for disposition of the submerged lands beyond our state's historical boundary," he said in a radio address to his constituency.

The Holland Bill would surrender federal claims to off-shore lands to the coastal states' historic boundaries—three miles in most instances—and makes no disposition of the remainder of the continental shelf. Former President Truman successfully vetoed such a bill last session.

Some coastal state congressmen, principally from Texas and Louisiana, have sought for the states a share of the revenue and a voice in running the outer strip of the continental shelf. This clashed with the administration's position that the outer belt of the continental shelf should remain under exclusive federal control.

Safety-Tape Plane Draws Stares Here

A local airplane fitted out in red safety-tape circled the city last night in the glare of a giant searchlight, and brought on a rash of stiff necks as Monroians followed the glowing aircraft's course.

The Brown Container plane, taped along the bottom of the fuselage and the wings, was aloft for about a half hour. The stunt was designed as part of the local Jaycee's promotion of a safety-tape campaign designed to cut down accidents. The illuminated tape is for use on bumpers of vehicles. The Jaycees are sponsoring sales of the tape in the Monroe area.

First Foreigner To Hold Ethiopian Government Office Settles In Dodson

DODSON, March 21. (Special)—The first foreigner ever to hold an office with the Ethiopian government has moved with his Egyptian wife to Dodson.

W. H. Erholm, who "always wanted to farm," has purchased an 80-acre tract near here. He is employed with the Rock Island railroad.

Erholm, a native New Yorker, held the Ethiopian title of Government Technical Director towards the close of World War II. He met his petite wife, Elizabeth, while in Ethiopia in 1944.

attend his classes!" the teacher informed Willie.

If one wants to see a lively congregation of automobiles and everyone seeking to untangle the over-thronged conglomeration of vehicles, he has but to go to Sherrouse Avenue on a Sunday at 9:30 a.m. or thereabouts.

Right in adjacent locations are the College Place Baptist Church and the Memorial Methodist Church, and across the street is Sherrouse School. At the hour named, there are by estimate as many as 300 autos at the Baptist church for it is Sunday school hour, and easily 200 cars halted when occupants attend Sunday school at the Methodist Church. But this is not all. With Our Lady of Fatima (Catholic) services in progress with early mass in the school, as many as 200 cars are parked or in the process of parking there. It is a friendly but lively assemblage that collects and departs all at the same time.

Jimbo Harper, the expert bow and arrow marksman of Sterlington, whom readers will recall as having killed a catfish with his bow and arrow, has once more scored.

This time his quick eye saw a big five-foot water rattler or moccasin in the bayou near his home in Sterlington, enjoying a sunshine siesta on the banks.

He aimed, he hit and the stunned snake coiled itself around the arrow, breaking it in twain; then turned on his back and breathed his last. Jimbo brought his "dangerous" catch to the bank to prove to his parents he was improving with every bow and arrow shot.

He is son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Harper, Jr.

Editor's Note: Jimbo, look at this week's "Life." We believe it will show you still have a challenge.

"Dear Jes' Ramblin'!

"Many thanks for your article in the Sunday World. I think you gave expression to the convictions of every thoughtful man in the city. The article has been widely read and I have heard many favorable comments."

"Years ago I heard a pompous and verbalistic Negro preacher announce to his congregation that he was planning to do something or other — 'If Gawd spare me, an' nuthin' happens, an' de Lawd is willin' an' no sort of providential hindrance occurs."

If it is not available for publication at this time, as magazine editors say when they want to let a writer down easy, you will know what to do about it. Little Rock, Ark., where they had been since 1950. A former McKay radio engineer, Erholm bought an Arkansas cattle farm sight unseen while still in Ethiopia. He had planned to raise cattle, but sold the farm when he found Arkansas colder than he had expected.

Erholm came by his Ethiopian U. S. State Department just before D-Day in Europe in 1944. He was given the assigned task of developing radio, telegraph, and telephone communications in Ethiopia. He recruited native workers, erected a transmitting station, and finally, to the excited pleasure of King Haile Sellassie of Ethiopia, beamed the first message to New York. As a member of the government, he had to master the official Ethiopian language, Amharic, as well as Arabic. He also speaks French, German and Italian.

Erholm married the former Elizabeth Abraham, daughter of a Cairo railway executive, in May of 1946. The wedding took place in Addis Abbaba, Ethiopia.

His wife, educated at le College de la Saint Famille in Cairo, comes from a socially registered Cairo family. Mrs. Erholm, who is studying to become a naturalized citizen, speaks French, Italian, Arabic, some Greek, Spanish and, of course English.

Baruch To Back Controls To Use For Emergencies

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP) — Senate supporters of a proposed 90 day freeze on prices, wages and rents, for use in an emergency, expect to get strong backing Monday from Bernard M. Baruch.

Baruch, veteran mobilization expert and adviser to presidents, is to testify before the banking committee on bills designed to protect against leaping prices if all-out war should come.

He strongly advocated an across-the-board freeze when the Korean War started in June, 1950. It was not done, however, and he later told Congress the government and consumers lost many billions of dollars as a result.

Several Cabinet officers have been asked to testify in open session later in the week, including Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson and Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks.

Chairman Capehart (R-Ind) said he does not know whether these or other administration witnesses will support the freeze bill. He indicated, however, that their testimony would not be unfriendly to the measure.

Wilson, Weeks and Secretary of State Dulles appeared at a closed-door session of the committee a month ago when it opened hearings on the question.

Afterwards, Capehart said he had heard nothing to indicate there had been any lessening of international tension or that a sudden war crisis would not develop at any time.

The committee chairman has introduced two bills on the subject. One is a simple 90-day freeze bill giving the President power to slap on a hold-the-line order in an emergency.

The other is a comprehensive standby controls bill which would permit the President to put into effect an emergency system of controls much like the present Defense Production Act, which expires April 30. This second measure would keep a skeleton staff on hand, to be ready if needed.

$31,779.13 Is Contributed To Red Cross

At the conclusion of the Friday report meeting in the Red Cross campaign $31,779.13 was tabulated. There is still a large number of firms who have not made their contributions.

R. Lee Vanderpool, Jr., general chairman, stated that one obstacle was the number of call-backs solicitors are having to make in the downtown business areas of Monroe and West Monroe. Many of the solicitor volunteers said they have made as many as four calls and still had not obtained the contribution. Mr. Vanderpool stated that apparently the contributors are forgetting that these solicitors are volunteers taking time away from their own businesses and jobs to do community service, and he appeals to every business to have the check and that of their employees ready when the volunteer calls. The solicitor is not only giving of his time, but also making his own donation to this drive.

C. G. Pearce, Sr., head of the employe division, stated that in most firms the employees are making better contributions than last year. They are striving to meet as many 100 per cent employe contributors as possible by the end of the month.

Another report meeting is scheduled for March 27, at 2:30 p.m. at Red Cross headquarters.

The Skillet Club

By UNCLE FRANK KOHLER

(Chief Skilleteer)

The avocado, or alligator pear, is an interesting subject for study and experiment. It may be served as appetizer, canape, salad or side dish. Sometimes hot, sometimes cold. It is generally available in the winter, and here are some unusual ways to serve:

The avocado should be fully ripened for best results — soft to the touch, with the meat a rich yellowish-green color. There are many varieties, but for the first two recipes, we recommend the dark, rough-skinned types, as the smooth ones seem to become watery when mashed.

Senior Lionel Yglesias, Skilleteer of San Jose, Costa Rica requires:

- 2 very ripe avocados.
- 2 hard boiled eggs.
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice.
- 1 tablespoon grated onion and juice.
- 1/4 teaspoon garlic salt (to taste).
- 1/4 teaspoon hot sauce.
- Salt, pepper, and chili powder to taste.

Put peeled avocado and eggs through a colander and mash in a fine pulp; then add remaining ingredients, seasoning carefully to taste.

Senior Alvaro de la Macorra, Skilleteer of Mexico City, gave us Guacamole de Mexico, a decidedly different treatment, but excellent. For the "chicharron" (or pork rind) french fried bacon skin, put up as a cocktail snack, is generally available. In place of the fresh green chilis, canned hot peppers may be used (but proceed with caution!). If you can't obtain "lo-luca," the white Mexican goat cheese, use dry cottage cheese.

The ingredients, translated from the "Spanish" are:

- 2 very ripe avocados.
- 1 tablespoon freshly chopped parsley.
- 1/4 cup chopped fresh chili peppers.
- 1/2 cup finely ground rendered pork rind.
- 1/2 cup broken bits of dry cottage cheese.
- Mash avocado to a pulp and stir in remaining ingredients. Salt and pepper may be added if desired. A neat trick from Mexico is to leave one of the avocado seeds in the mixture until serving, which slows discoloration of the mixture. These blends will discolor, and should be prepared as close to serving time as possible.

Guacamole may be served as a cocktail dip, with tomato in a salad, and it is very fine when rolled in a hot tortilla, or failing that, very thin, hot pancakes. It may be spread on toasted rounds as a canape, or used as a sandwich filling, especially on toasted bread.

Avocado omelette is one of our favorite "different" Sunday morning dishes. For four people, mash two ripe avocados, season with lemon juice, salt, pepper and a bit of garlic salt to taste.

We beat six eggs thoroughly, un-separated, preferably in the blender or electric mixer. While beating, we season with 1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire, a dash of hot sauce, a judicious bit of salt and pepper, and we add 1/4 cup hot water. Beat until fluffy.

Pour the mixture into a well-buttered, moderately hot iron skillet, lift with a fork until omelette is set, then place in a 325 degree oven for a few minutes until top of omelette is dry and lightly browned.

Spread avocado mixture over half of the omelette, and fold the remainder over. The top may be garnished with additional slices of the avocado, or spread with more of the mixture, or you may pour over the omelette a cream sauce in which some avocado has been dried.

Of course, the old standby is still good: half an avocado, unpeeled, served with a spoon, the seed hollow filled with tart French dressing.

Two One-Act Operas At Northeast State Slated

Featured on the list of spring attractions at Northeast State will be two one-act operas, Harry M. Lemert, head of the music department, announced. Scheduled for April 16 and 17 in Brown auditorium are Mozart's "Bastien and Bastienne" and Menotti's "Amelia Goes to the Ball."

Faculty members in charge of the productions include Joe Barry Mullins as music director; Miss

Gertrude Sandrock and Mrs. Velma Nichols Willey as vocal coaches; Sylvester Breard, production director, Miss Leita Mae King, adviser, and Mrs. Eloise Calhoun Stanhope, rehearsal pianist. The Ouachita Valley Civic Orchestra, under direction of Mullins, will play for the performances. "Bastien and Bastienne," a comic opera, was premiered in 1763. The twelve-year-old Mozart composed this work for the amateur theatre of a friend. A translation by Wilhelm Weiskern of a popular French operetta served as the libretto.

The story of the opera is of typical eighteenth century style - the love story. It deals with Bastienne, cast aside by her lover, Bastien, who leaves her to seek adventure. Bastienne turns to the village sorcerer, Colas, and asks that he give her a magic potion to end her troubles. He, in turn, tries unsuccessfully to gain her love.

There is a delightful chain of events leading to the traditional happy ending when Bastienne and Bastien are re-united.

Cast in roles for this opera are Jackie Jones as Bastienne, a shepherdess; Jennings Wilkins as Bastien; James Raymick as the would be sorcerer.

"Amelia Goes to the Ball" is the first opera composed by Gian-Carlo Menotti. The one-act comedy is the story of the way in which an eager housewife, Amelia, gets to attend a ball.

A series of exciting incidents delays Amelia's trip to the social event, but she goes at last with the chief of police. She leaves her husband in a dazed condition after he is hit on the head by her lover, who is taken to jail. Menotti offers both amusement and interest in "Amelia Goes to the Ball" for which he composed the libretto and music.

Principal solo performers for this opera are Betty Spurluck as Amelia; Sylvester Breard as the husband; Floradell Jones, a friend; Patricia Guerrero Brown, first chamber maid; Betty Landrum, second chamber maid; James Raymick, the commissioner.

This cast will be supported by a chorus and the orchestra.

Oil Explorers To Study Region Along Gulf Coast

HOUSTON, Tex., March 21 (UP)—Scientists who have the job of finding new sources for oil production will use the Texas Gulf Coast the next five days as an outdoors classroom.

Petroleum geologists, geophysicists and paleontologists from 16 countries will study and examine geological structures of one of the nation's most highly concentrated oil and gas producing areas.

Field trips for special studies will supplement a Houston meeting of three oil explorer groups—the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, the Society of Exploration Geophysicists and the Society of Economic Paleontologists and Mineralogists.

The convention brings together the largest collection of skilled petroleum exploration personnel ever assembled. Preliminary sessions begin tomorrow. Registration is expected to exceed 6,000 by Tuesday.

Twenty-four oil and gas fields of special geological significance will figure in the field trips. Of special interest will be salt dome fields, which in addition to oil and gas are a rich source of sulphur. Weather permitting, there will be an inspection of tidal lands explorations and operations.

There was a day when the three scientific groups operated independently, and, at times, somewhat skeptically of each other during their respective searches for new oil sources.

During the past 20 years, however, the specialized fields have supplemented each other. The most rapid and significant oil discoveries have been recorded during this period.

The search for subsurface oil reservoirs finds geologists studying and mapping the earth's surface, exposed rock formations, core drillings. Geophysicists add information by measuring subsurface structures through use of scientific instruments. Paleontologists, aided by microscopes, interpret fossils found in geological formations.

The cooperative result is oil exploration on a scientific basis. The 30,000 square mile, Texas-Louisiana Gulf coast area is an outstanding example of what close coordination among the three groups has meant to the oil industry.

Over 400 oil and gas producing structures have been discovered in the area the last 50 years.

Canadian-U. S. Boundary Fails To Defeat Cupid

DETROIT, March 21—UP—Immigration authorities looked the other way Saturday when Jovan Uroevic stepped one foot into the United States from Canada to be married to Mrs. Evangeline Kar-sal.

The ceremony was performed high over the Detroit River, just 12 inches from the American side of a white line in the middle of Ambassador Bridge marking the boundary between the two nations.

The boundary marriage speeded Dan Cupid. Uroevic, a 30-year-old displaced person from Yugoslavia, couldn't enter the U.S. because his visa application hasn't cleared. And they couldn't be married in Canada because the American divorce of his bride wouldn't be recognized in Canada for another eight months.

Recorder's Judge O. Z. Ide of Detroit unraveled the red tape by performing the double ring ceremony on the boundary. He got immigration officials to work at the law and let Uroevic step inside the U.S. "Just to make sure it's a legal wedding."

The International Bridge Authority acted as host and presented the couple with a miniature replica of the bronze plaque that formally identifies the boundary line.

Both the American and Canadian flags flapped briskly in the breeze as Judge Ide, who believes love should conquer all including international boundaries, pronounced them man and wife. As his reward, he stole a kiss from the bride.

19-Year-Olds Are Not Expected To Escape Draft Call

WASHINGTON, March 21—UP—Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey said Saturday that 19-year-olds can't look for much escape despite defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson's intention to cut draft calls.

Hershey said the military manpower pool is very low and draft calls would have to be cut by an enormous number to make any real difference in those being called up.

"The pointer still is moving down toward the 19-year-old group," Hershey said, "and there's nothing that can be done about it."

Draft calls are running about 53,000 a month. Wilson told a news conference Friday he hoped to cut the calls and reduce the overall number of men in the armed services.

Wilson set no target. Hershey thought a decrease would make a "relatively small difference" in Selective Service's task in providing the men wanted.

Nineteen-year-olds already are being drafted by some local boards which are scraping the bottom of the manpower barrel.

Hershey intends to ask for tightened deferments for college students and fathers. Stiffer requirements would hit college freshmen hardest.

About 1.4 million draft-age men now are deferred because they are fathers. Hershey has said that the manpower problem never will be solved "until we make up our minds whether fatherhood is a substitute for serving."

Hershey also took note of reports that he is preparing to resign. He said it was like a man who's sick - sooner or later he begins to believe he's ill. "Then he laughed off a question about whether he intends to quit."

Pistol-Shooting Champ Guest Of Local Policemen

William T. Toney, Jr., U. S. pistol champion, will be the guest of the Monroe police department tomorrow when he will observe quick-draw pistol match at the police shooting range near Bernstein park. The match is being sponsored by members of Monroe and West Monroe police departments, Louisiana state police and the Ouachita parish sheriff department.

Toney, a captain with the United States Border Patrol in east Texas, won the top honors at Jacksonville, Florida, last September. In winning first place, Toney broke an eleven-year reign held by Joe Benner and Harry Reeves over U. S. pistol shooters. The national champion is witnessing the local shooting practice match to observe the quick-draw method which is used by local officers.

In taking the first place at the meet last fall, Toney scored 2904 out of a possible 2700 in the national competition. He has been a participant in competitive shooting since 1938, when he rated a master.

The most important, most pressing year (1953) of our work is destroying the Chinese Reds and resisting the Russians. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, calling for full Formosa mobilization.

Taft Hopes Cut Can Be Made In Military Spending

WASHINGTON, March 21—UP—Senate Republican Leader Robert A. Taft, voiced hope Saturday that military spending can be cut at least $4 billion below projected levels as part of an effort to hold the fiscal 1954 budget to $70 billion.

In addition, he said he favored reducing foreign aid outlays by $2.5 billion and cutting spending for all other government activities by $1.5 billion.

His figures represented subtractions of $8 billion from the spending items in the $78.5 billion budget former President Truman submitted to Congress in mid-January.

Taft referred to a budget review now underway in the Eisenhower administration and added:

"Whether we can get enough this year to justify a tax cut—that's what we're waiting to hear."

Republican factions in both the Senate and House are embroiled in a dispute over whether tax cuts now scheduled shall take effect.

President Eisenhower, Taft and other administration leaders are determined the budget must be balanced first.

A bloc headed by Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R-N.Y.) of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, is equally determined taxes must be cut to carry out campaign promises, regardless whether the budget is brought into balance.

Even before the Truman budget, Taft had reported he and president Eisenhower had agreed on aiming for a $70 billion budget for the 1954 fiscal year which begins July 1.

Eggs, Coffee Making Biggest Jumps In Price

By UNITED PRESS

A spot check on eight common commodities showed Saturday that eggs and coffee have taken the biggest price jumps since decontrol.

The check was made in 10 major cities representing all sections of the nation and compared prices now with those prevailing on the date the items were decontrolled.

Few price changes were uniform except in the case of popular brand cigarettes, which were almost evenly up one cent a pack since decontrol Feb. 25.

However, Los Angeles reported that cigarette prices were the same, indicating retailers had absorbed wholesale hikes made by the manufacturers.

Eggs, which were decontrolled Feb. 12, showed price jumps ranging from 2 to 8 cents a dozen for the grade A large variety.

Omaha showed a 2 cent rise in eggs, while Minneapolis and Atlanta reported 4 cents. San Francisco 5 cents, Cleveland, Denver and Dallas 6 cents, Los Angeles 7 cents and New York 8. Only Indianapolis showed no price change on eggs.

The price of a popular brand of lined coffee varied, but showed a rise of 6 cents a pound at Omaha, 4 cents at San Francisco and New Prices elsewhere were unchanged.

The government had predicted a rise of 6 to 10 cents a pound on coffee when prices were decontrolled March 12. Price hikes were expected to be more general when new stocks of coffee roasted since decontrol are sold.

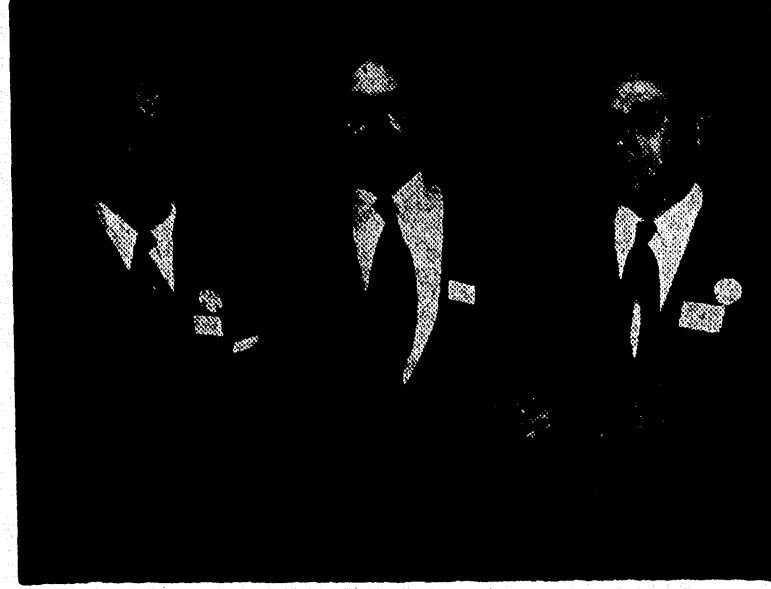

Hamburger and beef pot roast showed sharp price declines in many cases, but these were attributed to the general fall of beef prices rather than decontrol. Lifting of ceiling prices on meat Feb. 4—the first such government order—came in the midst of a plentiful beef supply.

Prices of a popular brand of household detergent and canned beer were uniformly unchanged in all cities, except that New York reported a drop of 4 cents a box on the detergent.

A gallon of regular gasoline varied from no change in some cities to 1-10th of a cent increase at Omaha and 2 cents at San Francisco. Los Angeles reported a hike of 2.1 cents on at least one brand. West Coast refineries were the first to raise prices after decontrol on petroleum products Feb. 12.

This week President Eisenhower warned the nation that prices are likely to go up under his carefully-spaced series of decontrol orders. Price controls were removed in seven steps starting with meat Feb. 4 and ending with all products that were left—including steel—March 17.

As soldiers we can only do our duty and obey orders. But we have faith that President Eisenhower will find the way to bring peace to Korea as well as the rest of the world—Gen. James A. Van Fleet, in farewell address to the Eighth Army.

Auto Workers Union To Hold Meeting Today

By ALAN ADAMS

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., March 21—UP—The powerful CIO Automobile Workers Union assembled Saturday to tangle in convention with Communists, negotiations with the auto industry, and a new program for labor controls.

Some 3,000 delegates—representing the union's 1.3 million membership—will attend a week-long meeting which opens Sunday at gigantic Convention Hall.

Meanwhile, Walter P. Reuther, who is UAW and CIO president, held a strategy huddle with top officers on plans for winning the backing of his policies. He was sure to meet some fighting opposition.

Local 600 in the Ford plants—the hard core of anti-Reuther sentiment—was set to battle the Reuther forces on at least two fronts: His program aimed at Communists, and the current five-year contracts Reuther signed with the auto industry in May, 1950.

The scrapping labor leader, in his report to be presented to the convention, charged that Local 600 has been guided by a "small but well disciplined Communist group." The Union's executive board removed the local's leadership last March and appointed an administrator, but subsequent election returned many of the ousted leaders to office.

However, five members of the local—the largest of the UAW's 1,220 locals—are still out. They were removed from office "on the grounds that they are, beyond a reasonable doubt, members of or subservient to the communist party." They have appealed the decision to the delegates who will make a final ruling.

Private Ownership Of Homes Is Praised

WASHINGTON, March 21 —UP—The chairman of the U.S. Savings & Loan League said Saturday "the rise of private home ownership is one of the nation's principal safeguards against communism."

In an address to the American Savings & Loan Institute, Morton Bodfish of Chicago said "the world's greatest stronghold of private property is the United States, and the most important element of this property is the 22 million homes owned by American families."

Bodfish said, "Present international affairs make it difficult to expect an early return to an economy in which the government does not play a very substantial and influential role."

Speaking at the closing session of the institute's 28th annual conference, he warned his audience against the "easy optimism" of feeling that the recent election "has meant a stop to the trend toward state socialism."

Tito Sails For Home After Talks In Great Britain

By O. D. GALLAGHER
LONDON, March 21 —UP—Marshal Tito sailed Saturday for Yugoslavia as Scotland Yard disclosed the unprecedented security precautions it set up for his five-day visit were prompted by secret "information."

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden bade farewell to the Yugoslav President at Westminster Pier where Tito said "all that we hoped for was achieved" — an apparent reference to the Anglo-Yugoslav agreement to resist aggression.

A Scotland Yard spokesman declined to reveal what "information" it had received but the security precautions amazed Britons who are accustomed to seeing their own Queen and government leaders move freely through the city.

"The proof of the pudding is in a police point of view."

Apparently the visit could not have gone off more smoothly from a diplomatic point of view either, for a communique issued Friday night said agreements reached by Tito and Prime Minister Winston Churchill were little short of a formal pact of friendship.

In his farewell message Tito said:

"During our stay in Great Britain we have become even more convinced that the collaboration between our two countries will greatly benefit both our peoples and promote the safeguarding of peace in Europe."

In the course of direct contact and talks with the responsible members of the British government all that we have hoped for has been attained."

Four British destroyers escorted Tito's Yugoslav naval vessel through the English Channel. Two will escort him to Gibraltar where destroyers from Malta will take over the remainder of the escort duties. Again he was accorded air protection.

Monroe Negro Charged With Safe Burglary

A Monroe Negro, on probation from the Louisiana State penitentiary at Angola, was arrested Sunday morning by the Ouachita parish sheriff in connection with a burglary of the Brown Container Corporation safe late Wednesday night.

Frank Kirby, chief criminal deputy with the Ouachita parish sheriff's department, identified the Negro as David Anderson, 25, 202 Cedar Street.

Anderson was sentenced to three years at the state prison on February 19 of last year after being convicted of simple robbery of the Dr. Pepper Bottling Company. He was arrested by the Monroe city detectives for the crime at that time. The Negro served one year of the sentence and was placed on probation last month for the remainder of the sentence.

Anderson is charged with attempting to break into a safe in the office of the container corporation. Although the safe was not opened, it was damaged severely in the attempt to open it.

Officials at the corporation said no money was kept in the safe and that "only papers essential to our operations" were ever left there overnight.

New Red Purge Is Expected In Soviet Bulgaria

VIENNA, March 21 —UP—Radio Sofia reported Saturday that Bulgarian Premier Vulko Chervenkov is preparing a new purge of "traitors, spies and provocateurs."

The broadcast quoted Chervenkov as saying that the purge is necessary because the Communist party in Bulgaria "has not been sufficiently vigilant" — parroting the watchword used by Moscow in the recent purge of Soviet underlings.

It was the second time in a week that the Bulgarian Reds had complained of the presence of "traitors" in their ranks and had warned that they will be "liquidated."

Production has been lagging behind planned goals in Bulgaria, and the Yugoslav agency Tanjug reported Saturday "many acts of sabotage have been committed recently" in the Red-held country.

Observers here suspected that Chervenkov is preparing for a big propaganda "trial" to provide scapegoats for the shortcomings of his Communist machine.

Saturday's broadcast lends color to that belief, quoting Chervenkov as saying that Bulgarian workers "have not fulfilled the economic and cultural plan," and warning that "stricter measures" will be necessary to take up the slack in production.

Six days ago, Radio Sofia said that "traitors against the will of the working class are resisting the historic will of Bulgaria," and warned that they will be "liquidated."

"We are supported by the Soviet Union," a Red broadcaster said at that time.

Industries Of Parish Are Now Being Studied

At the beginning of the current school session the faculty of Millsaps School in West Monroe expressed a wish to study the industries of the parish as a means of in-service training. The group felt that they would be better able to teach local geography to their pupils by seeing first hand some of the industrial plants of the surrounding area.

A committee of three, Mrs. Helen Ortis, Mrs. Dewey Simmons, and Mrs. LaVon Oglesbee, together with the principal, Clifford Roberts, polled the group to determine which industries the teachers wished to visit and the order in which the visits would be made. It was decided to go first to those industries that in some form provide the materials of the home, then to those engaged in furnishing food and clothing, and last to those varied industries such as transportation, communication and others.

The first visit was made to the plant of the Century Brick Company on the Sterling Road. Here the group was shown through the plant and learned many interesting facts about the manufacture and distribution of the products of this industry. The teachers were amazed to learn that one of the most popular products of the company is made chiefly of a mixture of black Louisiana gumbo mud which is obtained near Baton Rouge. Another interesting fact learned is that the products of this plant are being shipped to eight states at present. Thus they learned how Louisiana products have a wide distribution throughout this section of the nation.

The second visit was made to the plant of the Selig Manufacturing Company where the teachers witnessed the varied types of labor used in the manufacture of chairs and sofas. Again the group was interested in how a local industry, using local labor and materials, is processing a product that has a nation-wide distribution. A complete tour of the plant was made and the group saw the raw materials being transformed into beautiful chairs.

The C. C. Bell Manufacturing plant was next on the list. Here the teachers saw how windows and doors, as well as cabinets, are made. They were very much interested in viewing some of the cabinets being made for the new West Monroe High School. Again, the group was impressed by the variety of products being made and the division of labor illustrated in the plant.

Turning to industries that are helping to feed the nation, the faculty visited the plant of the McCormick Poultry Company where they witnessed the processing of poultry. The use of machinery to a high degree and the almost complete division of labor were the most impressive points of this visit.

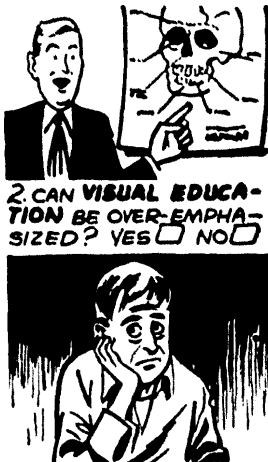

These visits have been made monthly, and the faculty feels that they have been benefited highly. As a result of these and similar visits, the pupils of Millsaps School will, through the eyes of their teachers, be brought into closer contact with the business life of the community.

1. WERE COLORED BANDS ON CIGARS INTRODUCED TO PLEASE MEN OR WOMEN? YOUR OPINION —

2. CAN VISUAL EDUCATION BE OVER-EMPHASIZED? YES NO
3. ARE MENTAL AND EMOTIONAL DISORDERS INHERITED? YES NO

Answer to Question No. 1
1. Women, according to Sydney Clark. In Colonial times, he says, upper class Cuban women smoked cigars openly. To keep the tobacco from soiling milady's fingers, manufacturers wrapped white bands around the cigars and this practice grew into the elaborate colored ones used as trademarks today. Another proof that women move the world!

Fr. Paul Baudry Is To Preach In Church Mission

Father Paul Baudry, of the Redemptorist Fathers of New Orleans, opens a Spiritual Mission at St. Matthew's Church at all the Masses Sunday morning, March 22. Special sermons will be given each night beginning Sunday night, throughout the week at 7:30 p.m.

There will be four Holy Masses each morning, Monday through Saturday, at 6:30, 7:15, 7:45 and 8:30, with a short sermon each morning by Father Baudry between the first two and the last two Masses. The high school children are expected to assemble at church each morning at 8:15 to hear Father Baudry's talk and then attend the 8:30 Mass.

The evening sermons by Father Baudry will embrace the most important points of Catholic doctrine and morals, and will bring these age-old truths in a modern manner and apply them to the problems of today.

The Spiritual Mission is a time for all Catholics to renew their Faith and devotion, by reviewing the Sacred teachings of the Saviour, praying more often and more fervently, and receiving the Great Sacraments which Christ left for our spiritual benefit. It is also a time to bring non-Catholic friends to the evening sermons, to help them have a better understanding of holy religion, and thus create a more cordial understanding between Catholics and non-Catholics, in general.

The public is most cordially invited to attend any or all of the mission services states Msgr. J. C. Marsh, pastor.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Can't Blame Your Figure
On Baby, Says Mother

One of the Marathon exercises for legs: Bend the knees and touch fingertips to floor, as shown. Keep the back straight. Quickly straighten knees and reach overhead with arms, rising high on toes. Continue, rapidly bending and reaching upward.

It is a mean trick to blame your figure faults on having had a baby! This gives you such a noble alibi that no one will argue with you, least of all your husband. I hate to do this to you, girls, but here comes a reprint of a letter I have just received.

"Dear Mrs. Lowman,

"Last year I sent for your Eight-Week Self-Improvement Marathon. I have been planning to write you my results ever since, but now that Marathon time has come and gone I will tell you now so that it may help mothers with babies to know that they can regain their figures.

"About this time last year I weighed 145 pounds — height, 5 feet, 3 inches; bust, 36 inches; waist, 27 inches and hips, 39 inches. I was 28 years of age and had had 6 babies in 10 years. When my last baby was 6 months old I started Marathon.

"Here are the results: Weight, 123 pounds; bust, 35 inches; waist, 24 inches and hips, 35 inches. I CAN be done so there's no reason for any mother to go around with a figure she is ashamed of. You can imagine how it burns me up to hear someone say, 'I have had two babies. There is no reason for me to try to look well.'"

Well, there it is, right straight on the line, and directly from the mouth of experience! Naturally when a woman is pregnant she gains in pounds but this doesn't mean that the woman herself must get fat. It is true that she needs more food than at other times because she is eating for the baby as well as for herself.

Some women seem to think they are eating for three or four! The baby takes what food it needs and the mother gets the rest. If too much is left over it lands on her in fatty deposits.

Diet is extremely important to the fine condition of the mother and her growing baby. Therefore she must eat a well-balanced, and vitamin and mineral-rich diet, with special emphasis on calcium because of the great amount needed for the child's bony structure.

However, she does not have to become obese. In fact delivery is much easier if she doesn't, and she is much less apt to fall heir to other hazards of pregnancy. If you did gain pounds and pounds, lose them as soon as you stop nursing your child.

I usually offer my Eight-Week Self-Improvement Marathon book-

Defense Displays To Be Shown Here

How residents of Ouachita parish can organize to survive enemy attack will be emphasized by three special Louisiana civil service displays which will appear in Monroe on March 31-April 2 in conjunction with an Oak Ridge exhibit on atomic energy.

A. B. Clarkson, civil defense director of Ouachita parish said that the free exhibit will include more than 30 authoritative displays on atomic energy prepared by officials of the Oak Ridge AEC plant.

The special Louisiana Civil Defense displays will be manned by representatives of the state agency to explain the organization and role of Civil Defense on state, parish and municipal levels.

Urging citizens to see the exhibit which will be held at Ouachita Parish School gymnasium, Director Clarkson pointed out that it will demonstrate how the individual can survive atomic attack and how atomic energy can be used for peacetime industrial, medical and farming purposes.

The Civil Defense portion of the display will include displays on the attack warning system, utilization of highways and roads during emergencies, plans for communities to assist each other and protective services which should be established.

Louisiana Civil Defense personnel will also discuss the role of state, parish and municipal CD organizations and answer questions on the self-survival program.

The atomic energy exhibit is touring Louisiana under sponsorship of the LSU general extension division and college of chemistry and physics and the following agencies:

Alexandria Town Talk, Lake Charles Association of Commerce, Louisiana civil defense agency, Monroe News-Star-World, Baton Rouge Morning Advocate - State Times, Shreveport Times and Station KWKH, New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Negro Red Cross Reports Are Good

At a report meeting of the Negro division of the Red Cross held last week, co-chairman A. H. Bowie and J. H. Miller announced total contributions to date of $1,375.37. While contributions were not being received as fast as anticipated, the chairmen again stated they would reach their goal of $2600.

Mrs. Taunton Veazey, executive secretary, stated that this was the best job of individual contacts of the entire campaign — that 731 individuals had made donations. They have secured 342 memberships — this meaning $1.00 or more. This is in addition to the churches and business donations. Mr. Vanderpool made favorable comments about the rural contacts. Calhoun, Bosco, and Richwood have turned in $79.92. This is the first time in several years that this division has reported rural contributions.

'Little Sheba' Called Mighty Screen Drama

Movie-goers have every reason to be grateful to Paramount Pictures, Producer Hal Wallis and Director Daniel Mann who have fashioned a powerful, penetrating screen drama out of the Theatre Guild's unforgettable stage triumph, "Come Back, Little Sheba." The film version, in which Shirley Booth repeats her prize-winning performance and which co-stars Burt Lancaster in the most important role of his career, opened yesterday at the Paramount Theatre.

Seldom has a stage play been brought to the screen with the compelling force of the original presentation retained to so strong a degree as is evidenced in this triumph of the film-maker's art. Basically, "Come Back, Little Sheba" tells a simple story. It examines the wasted lives of a middle-aged couple whose romance has lost its bloom. The husband looks for oblivion in the bottle and the wife tries to brighten her gray days with nostalgic memories of youth. As the blowsy wife surrounded by decay and despair, Shirley Booth is nothing short of magnificent. She creates a character which will remain vivid in the minds of spectators long after they leave the theatre. Equally brilliant in a role totally unlike anything he has done before, Burt Lancaster brings to the screen a portrayal of a husband caught up in a maelstrom of wasted years and servile indignities.

In sharp contrast to the colorless lives of Shirley Booth and Burt Lancaster is the presence of an attractive band in their home, Terry Moore. Her romantic entanglements with a young college athlete, Richard Jaeckel, remind the older couple of an excitement no longer theirs. The vivacity and intensity of the passions of the young lovers eventually cause a crisis between the husband and wife, climaxed when Lancaster succumbs to emotional stress in a scene that forms one of the picture's dramatic highlights. Thieves raided a clothes line at an Adams Street residence Friday night and made off with two sheets, three pillowcases, five pairs of socks and one blouse. The raid was believed to have occurred between 10 p. m. and 11 p. m., according to Hugh L. Tolbert, chief of detectives, Monroe Police Department.

Also reported to the department Saturday was the theft of a 600x16 tire which was taken from a parked car in the 300 block of Walnut Street. The tire, mounted on a red wheel, was taken from the car of Charles McDonough, a serviceman stationed in Waco, Texas.

Costly Movie Edged Out By Cheap Film

HOLLYWOOD, March 21—UP—MGM is putting finishing touches on a $2.5 million production of Julius Caesar—but a little $10,000 version has beat it to the punch.

MGM's supercolossal movie, due for fall release, features Marlon Brando, Greer Garson, James Mason, Deborah Kerr, thousands of extras and expensive sets.

But making the rounds of the "art" theaters is another Julius Caesar that was made on weekends by director-actor David Bradley in 1949 in Chicago between sessions at Northwestern University.

"I haven't heard a word from Metro yet, but I know they looked at my picture before filming theirs," chuckled Bradley, now a Hollywood director.

Bradley pared his budget by outfitting the student actors in togas made from sheets (sawn by helpful coeds) and painted wooden spears.

For sets he simply borrowed the front porches of Chicago civic buildings which have fine Roman-style columns. The Rosenwald Museum became a Roman forum; Soldier's Field was the coliseum.

The extras were any Sunday strollers or friends who could be pressed into a toga. Bradley could round up only 75 soldiers in hand-hammered aluminum outfits and GI helmets trimmed with plumes. But via trick shots, they look like two armies.

The background music was recorded in an empty swimming pool where a handful of musicians sounded like a full-dress orchestra. To hide the Chicago skyscrapers and Sunday drivers in the background, Bradley used angled, huge close-ups. The result was so interesting the critics cried "art!" and the little picture, with three years of distribution difficulties, was booked into theaters. It won critics' applause at its New York opening last fall.

Hollywood first eyed the movie when Charlton Heston, its star and then an unknown, used it as a screen test.

Producer Hal Wallis hired Heston, MGM snapped up Bradley, another student actor, Jeffrey Hunter, won a contract at 20th Century Fox.

"I worked at MGM two years, learning the business and it was helpful," Bradley said. "I was to be assistant director on their Caesar. Then a new director came on the picture and I was let out of the studio."

The young, dark haired director, backed by French financing, will leave soon for Tahiti to make a 3D film on the life of Paul Gauguin, the French painter.

"I think my movies prove you just need a camera, story, director and actors to make a film," he said. "Hollywood smoothers its movies with money."

There can be no question of barring a human life or deflecting the course of justice or mercy in Malaysia for the sake of obtaining the release of a British subject unjustly imprisoned in Hungary.

— Prime Minister Winston Churchill, refusing Hungary's offer to free Edgar Sanders in return for condemned Chinese Communist woman guerrilla, Lee Meng.

I think they (the people) have seen the folly of much of this excessive support program in recent years. — Sec. of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson.

30 Million-Year-Old Bones Unearthed By Northeast Search Party

A large number of bones and fossils, some of which are estimated to be 30 million years old, were unearthed recently by a field-trip team of two Northeast State faculty members, two students and their guests. The fossils were collected for use in science laboratory study at the college, and will eventually end up in a proposed museum in the college science building.

Members of the field trip left Monroe early in the morning to arrive at the spot — near Columbia — in time to spend most of the day searching for these various shells, stones and fossils, most of which were found along the banks of the Ouachita River and are said to be of the marine type.

Making the scientific safari were John H. McCarter, assistant professor of geology at Northeast State, who conducted the trip; Edward C. Whalley, assistant professor of biological science; Jerry Dark, of Columbia, a geology student; Dan Dennett of Monroe, a science major, and the group's quest, the late Dr. Louis J. Wilbert, a paleontologist and former member of the geology staff of Louisiana State University.

Dr. Wilbert wrote his dissertation for his doctor's degree on the "Jackson" formation near Columbia, which is a layer of material deposited on the bottom of the sea from Cairo, Ill., to the present site of the Gulf of Mexico.

This area at one time was covered entirely by salt water, geologists say. The Jackson area is one layer in many formations in the Gulf Coast area.

Dr. Wilbert was a former professor of McCarter's at L. S. U. The foursome and their guest took boats and a jeep to reach their destination, for much of the traveling was done on the water.

Most of the bones and shells were discovered on the east side of the river. Location points surveyed were Grand View Bluff and Bunker Hill and surrounding area.

A large vertebra found by the search party weighed 27 pounds and was estimated to be approximately 30 million years old. It was described by Paleontologist Wilbert as being one bone of the "Zeuglodon cetoides," an extinct mammal which resembled a whale.

Large animals of this type lived in this area when it was under the sea, the college scientist stated.

Also found were a number of shark teeth and other fossils of the marine type which indicated that the area under survey was a salt water deposit. Location of the area where the huge vertebra was found is south of Long Lake on the west bank of the Ouachita River.

Those over-sized vertebrae are not the first reported found in this area. A Judge Bry, research shows found one of the fossils of this size as early as 1834.

When the sea receded each time, it left a new deposit for geological study. And, each time this happened, new fossils were left behind.

An interesting fact about the large bones was brought out after this recent expedition. It happens that residents of the rural area near Columbia had been using the large fossils as "andirons" without knowing that they were from an era of millions of years past.

Andirons are the obstructions usually metal — which keep logs from rolling out of a fireplace.

This field trip is one of a series planned by the Northeast State Science department. It followed the one of last year in which a number of Indian relics were unearthed in almost the same region.

More searches for rare bones and fossils are planned this spring. When enough material is collected the college scientists hope to establish a museum of natural history at Northeast State.

Various skeletons, Indian relics, bones and fossils are already on display in the science laboratories at Northeast State.

Democrats Happy Over Trouble GOP Is Having

WASHINGTON, March 21.—UP—Democrats pointed gleefully Saturday at President Eisenhower's troubles with Congress and observed that "the honeymoon was spoiled... by Republicans themselves."

The jibe at the White House Congress split has marked the early days of the new Republican administration was hurled in an editorial in the Democratic digest appraising "the first 60 days."

"The new administration has not only stumbled, but Republican feet have tripped it," the publication said. "It not only has frequently misallied the signals, but some of the GOP ball carriers have deliberately crossed up the quarterback."

"Nearly all of the straight-out opposition so far has come from Republican, not Democratic, quarters. Even the rudest public criticism has come from Republican spokesmen."

Point by point, the Democrats cited several issues on which Republicans in Congress have split with the White House. They included:

Sen. Robert A. Taft's denunciation of the appointment of Labor Secretary Martin P. Durkin as "incredible."

Refusal to confirm Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson until he agreed to sell his General Motors stock.

Protests by farm state Republicans against the attitude of Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson on price supports.

The time-table for tax cuts which boiled over this week into a charge by Rep. Daniel A. Reed (R-N.Y.) that Mr. Eisenhower and other GOP leaders were winking on a campaign pledge by insisting on a balanced budget first.

A Democratic spokesman said they didn't include the red-hot battle over confirmation of Charles E. Bohlen as ambassador to Moscow because it developed after the magazine was on its way to press.

The magazine goes to a mailing list of about 50,000 Democrats across the country.

In addition to the editorial of "the first 60 days," the 24-page magazine contained several articles pointing out GOP splits on issues farm price supports and investigations of the State Department.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

Once again the Optimist Club is planning to sponsor Little Bigger League baseball for the Twin Cities in order to fill the gap between Little League and American League Junior diamond play for these boys between 13 and 15 years of age.

But like anything else that succeeds, the Optimists and the young athletes neeb help to put their program across. Funds for promotion of the league for the first time last year were obtained by means of a "pancake and sausage breakfast" given by the Optimists who poured a total of $1,400 into operation of four teams in their league.

Again the pancake and sausage feed will be given, this time on April 11 between the hours of 6 A. M. and 12 noon at the St. Matthew's High School cafeteria in downtown Monroe. Tickets for the feed are going for a reasonable 75 cents with all proceeds earmarked for Little Bigger League operations.

Expansion is also in store for the 13-to-15-year-olds this year, according to Bill Dyer and Merlin Milstead who have been taking major roles in promoting Little Bigger play. Two additional clubs will be carried this year, making it a six-team circuit.

There is some talk of the Optimists bringing in business firms to sponsor individual teams along the pattern of Little League, but this is something to be worked out by the fathers of the "Bigger" circuit, who, if they go along with last year's planning, will have to foot all the expenses. But whatever is the final plan, the Little Bigger boys will still get their baseball and can go ahead with their arrangements for the season.

Club or at Laundromatic, 311 Louisville avenue; Central breakfast can be obtained from any member of the Optimist. By the way, those tickets for the pancake and sausage Super-Service, 200 Louisville; or R. and A. Jewelry.

Near summer weather has enabled the Rams to get in some good workouts the past week. The park gates are wide open during Ram workouts, and Twin City fans have Manager Fitzgerald's welcome if they want to stop by for the intrasquad contest.

Leland Sims, Neville High's all-state guard the last two seasons, who also made the high school All-America squad of 1952, has returned home after attending spring football work at Georgia Tech. Leland reports Coach Bobby Dodd has decided to give him a whirl at tackle instead of his familiar high school guard position.

"It's sure going to be tough making that team," Sims said. "We had 115 out for spring training, and of course a lot of them won't be around when the final weeding takes place. I just hope I can come through."

By F. T. MACFEELEY
JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 21 (AP)—Tommy Bolt, refreshed by a two-week rest from the tournament tour, covered the Hyde Park Municipal course in 66 strokes today and caught Fred Hawkins at the midway point in the Jacksonville Open Golf Tournament.

Bolt, from Maplewood, N. J., had 68-66 for his 134—10 under par for the two rounds.

Hawkins, El Paso, Tex., added 69 to his opening round 65 for his 134.

They were two strokes ahead of Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Lew Worsham, Oakmont, Pa., after another two-stroke gap came five players at 138, including Jim Turnesa, Briarcliff, N. Bolt hit a No. 2 iron shot to the 14th green and sank an 18-foot putt for his eagle on the 466-yard par 5 hole. On the 16th hole Bolt's ball rimmed the cup and he missed birdie puts from 10 and 7 feet on the next two holes.

Frank Stranahan, Toledo, betted his opening round by a stroke and led amateurs at 71-70—141. The tournament continues with single rounds Sunday and Monday.

Towel Kayoed By Carruthers In Tenth Round

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, March 21. (AP)—Jimmy Carruthers of Australia, retained his world bantamweight boxing title tonight by knocking out Vic Towel, former champion, after 20 seconds of action in the tenth round.

A crowd of 36,000 fans watched Carruthers demolish his fltic idol. The Australian was a 5 to 4 favorite before the bout began. Carruthers weighed 117 pounds, 14 ounces. Towel registered 117 pounds, 9 ounces.

Carruthers won the title from Towel with a sensational first round knockout last Nov. 15. The South African's supporters said at the time he had been greatly weakened by having to make the 118 pound weight limit.

The return bout was scheduled for Feb. 7 but was postponed. The bout was the second world title bout of 1953. The first was Feb. 11 when welterweight champion Kid Gavilan stopped Chuck Davey in Chicago.

TIGER TWIRLERS—Pitching again this season for Neville High of Monroe will be the quartet of youngsters pictured above who won a total of 47 games while losing only seven last year in high school and American Legion Junior competition. Left to right, they are Max Mayes, "Little Red" Swanson, Gene Barham, and Wayne Causey. Mayes, only senior of the Tiger squad, pitched for West Monroe's Legion Juniors after the prep season was over in '52, while his mates were rivals on the Monroe Legion club that won the state championship.

LaSalle Could Prove Tough Foe For Neville

La Salle High School of Olla will field a team against Neville next Tuesday night which has perhaps as good a chance as any team in the state of defeating the Tigers. The game will be played at Legion Memorial Stadium here.

This squad won the Class B title in the state in 1951, and went to the semi-finals last year where they were eliminated by Franklin, 6-5. The regular season record last year was 10 won with some lost all against teams in AA, A, and B competition. This team won the district title at Natchitoches last year.

LaSalle lost only three men by graduation last year, and thus has 11 returning lettermen.

Many Brown, who plays outfield when he isn't pitching, will probably be one of the most outstanding hitters on the team. Myron Lindsey, another pitcher, plays at first base when not on the mound. Doug Winberry, an outfielder, is expected to be another leading hitter.

The probably starter against Neville will be Gerald Nugent, considered by many as the best LaSalle pitcher. He is a right handed pitcher with a good fast ball, a fair curve, and a good knuckle ball. He is a senior.

Probable lineups (not batting order):
LaSalle Pos. Neville
Ethridge C. Gannaway
Lindsey P. Causey
Lindsey 1B Scalla
Sims 2B Hardy
Nethery SS McCready
Carter 3B Rhymes
Brown LF Frickle
Winberry CF Reeves

A's Decide To Keep Coleman On Squad

ORLANDO, Fla., March 21. (AP)—Joe Coleman, the 31-year-old "old man" of the Philadelphia Athletics' pitching staff, is going to stay with the team, at least until the A's start the season.

Then he'll have to continue to show he has the stuff to stick in the majors.

Coleman turned in two top-notch relief tricks the past week, and Manager Jimmy Dykes is happy. "He can pitch," Dykes said. "He throws hard and has a good curve. We're keeping Joe around-taking him back north with us."

Kelly, Curtis Scramble Features Tuesday Show

"Irish Jack" Kelly, conqueror of George Curtis here last week, will try to make it two in a row over the wrestling Curtis family here Tuesday night as he engages big brother, Jack Curtis, in the main event on Promoter Gus Kallio's weekly mat show.

At the same time, Big Jack expects to redeem his family by avenging the loss of his kid brother in a match in which pile drivers may prove the favorite hold. The elder Curtis, former world's light heavyweight kingpin, has long been noted for his question mark hold, but of late he has been exploiting the pile driver, accomplished by inverting the victim and ramming him head first into the floor.

But Kelly, the self-styled "pride of the Yankees," also claims to be a strong believer in the pile driver and has declared his willingness to "match my pile driver with Curtis anytime."

The semi-final, opening the night's fireworks at 8 o'clock, sends young George Curtis against George Bruckman, a rowdy from New York. The Bruckman-Curtis curtain-raiser will have an hour time limit, two falls to win.

The Kelly-Curtis feature will be over a 90-minute time limit route, also two falls to win.

Bill Barney, the West Monroe automobile mechanic who makes wrestling a foremost hobby, will be the referee.

Northeast Rallies In 9th To Whip Southeastern

4 Runs In Last Inning Fashions 7-6 Redskin Win

Trailing 6-3 in the bottom half of the ninth inning, the Northeast State Indians came forward in a sudden surge of batting power to score four runs and top of the Southeastern Lions of Hammond, 7-6, here yesterday.

The thrilling finish was a grand display of teamwork on the part of the local college team, composed mostly of freshmen and sophomores.

The scoring rally came when Camillo Detore, rabbit-running center fielder, smashed an "inside-the-park" homer with one man out. Mark Boatright, Northeast pitcher, walked and later scored when Right Fielder J. B. Nolan lined out a double to right field. Donald Stewart's bunt and an error by the first baseman scored Gerald Hare and Nolan, to put the game on ice for the Indians.

Lanky Bob Bennett started on the mound for Northeast, to be relieved by Boatright in the top of the sixth inning when Coach H. W. (Woody) Boyles juggled his line-up and made four substitutions. Shirley Poole went all the way for Southeastern on the dirt hill, hurling four-hit ball until the fatal ninth inning. Poole, a junior, kept the Indians scoreless for four innings before Tommy Leos tallied after a walk and a stolen base in the bottom of the fifth with two out. Leos raced home on a passed ball.

In the bottom of the first Clyde (Bob) Thompson rapped out a clean double, but died on second base. A single by Jack Autin in the top of the third started the rally for Southeastern. Autin and Poole scored on a passed ball and an error by the shortstop, respectively. Northeast loaded the bases in the bottom of the third, but failed to bring in a run.

In the first half of the fourth inning Walt Andrew scored on an infield hit by Austin for Southeastern's third run of the game.

With the bases loaded in the top of the fifth inning and with only one out, Andrew walked, forcing in Jerry Salomone and Iwon Gomez scored on a fielder's choice, giving Southeastern two more runs. Another Lions' score came in the top of the sixth when Autin scored on an error by the center fielder.

Indian Spikemen Groom For First Event On April 1

Track workouts at Northeast State are speeding up in preparation for the first meet of the season for the Indians at Ruston April 1. Some 18 runners and field men were getting in shape for the coming events under the tutelage of Athletic Director Arnold Kilpatrick who doubles as track coach.

Most of the local college's grid players were taking the various track and field exercises, following an order by Head Football Coach James L. Malone, who stated that track would benefit his charges greatly in both speed and coordination. Spring football practice at the college was postponed indefinitely recently when a fire swept through the stadium here, burning or ruining most of the football equipment used in practice games.

Track and field men who will likely see action April 1 against Louisiana Tech, Louisiana College and Centenary include:

Returning lettermen Arlon Adams, Ogden, a 440 and 880-yard man; Doyle Craighead, Start, who tosses the javelin; Cam Detore, Hannastown, Pa., 100 and 220-yard entry who at present is in the starting line-up with the Indian baseball team; Danny Wingate, Eros, miller and distance man; Tommy Wilson, Monroe, discus thrower.

Another Shift Lifts Pressure Of Bum Unrest

MIAMI, Fla., March 21. (AP)—The reported "unrest" among the Brooklyn Dodgers because of the shift of Second Baseman Jackie Robinson to third base was temporarily sidetracked today when Manager Charlie Dressen shifted Robinson to first base.

The reports, published in New York papers this morning, were denied vociferously by Vice President Buzzy Bavasi of the Dodgers, who hurried here from the club's minor league training camp at Vero Beach.

"We have never had any discussion on the club and never will," Bavasi said. "I've talked to all the veteran ballplayers and they're very happy. We're going to win the pennant again in 1953."

Dressen's latest shift and Bavasi's denial quieted, at least for the moment, the resentment some players were said to have when Robinson was placed at third and the regular third baseman, Billy Cox, was benched. The cause Robinson, the league's All-Star second baseman last year, was replaced by Junior Gilliam, a Negro rookie still technically under contract to Montreal.

Gil Hodges, whom Robinson displaced today at first base, worked out before the game in left field. Hodges, who came up to the Dodgers as a catcher several years ago, could take over the wide-open left field berth without benching a regular. The spot has been sought by nearly a dozen hopefuls after the sale of Andy Park during the winter.

Dressen, meanwhile, said the only reason for today's shift was that Hodges had a sore spot between the thumb and index finger of his throwing hand. The hand apparently did not bother Hodges in pre-game practice. But it was recalled that Dick Williams had relieved Hodges when necessary in earlier games.

Bavasi added to the "who's-on-what" confusion by announcing that as far as he was concerned Cox still was the club's regular third baseman. This was despite an announcement by Dressen when spring training started that Cox would be used as a utility man all over the field, Bobby Morgan and Don Hoak, both undrafted players, were mentioned as the most prominent third base candidates.

Avila's Antics Cause Unrest Among Indians

CLEVELAND, March 21. (AP)—Roberto Avila's winter activities in the Mexican Baseball League have created something of a ruckus among his fellow players of the Cleveland Indians, baseball writer Hal Lebovitz reported today.

The writer's dispatch from San Francisco to the Cleveland News said the second baseman's teammates are "fed up" with his "loafing" and his perennial lateness in coming up from Mexico to the Tribe's spring training camp. The club had asked him not to play in Mexico.

Avila was later than usual this year, and reported with a sore ankle. He said he had been in an automobile accident. But there were published accounts that he was injured Feb. 28 while sliding into second base in a game in Vera Cruz.

The news yesterday published a story by a sports writer from Mexico City, Jorge Alarcon, saying Avila played in 44 games, and was not the team's manager, but its star second baseman.

Avila renewed his claim that he was the manager, but said for the first time that "I played 20 games," Lebovitz wrote.

The News also quoted General Manager Hank Greenberg, now at the Indians' rookie camp in Daytona Beach, Fla., as saying "The commissioner's (Ford Frick's) office is lax in Avila's case. The commissioner should stop him if he knows about it. Maybe he doesn't know about it."

Nichols, LBC Girls Win La-Miss-Ark Cage Titles

Jonesboro Quint, Winnboro Girls Beaten In Finals

By TED HECKATHORN

The Nichols Motors cagers added another tournament championship to their bag last night when they won their own Louisiana-Mississippi-Arkansas meet by defeating Kilpatrick-Gresham Motors of Jonesboro, 74-61, in the title game; and the Louisiana Business College Girls won their section crown by a 48-38 margin over the Winnboro Independent sextet.

The Nichols Motormen, playing a great floor game, were off badly in accuracy during the first half, but led by a 33-18 margin at intermission. Sparked by speed-merchant Linwood Outz, who poured in 14 points, 13 of them in the second half, the locals maintained a nine and ten point edge throughout. "Hound" McConathy and Bob Meador were second high scorers for Nichols with 13 apiece, while Bobby Bates, with 10, and James Hamle, with eight, led the Kilpatrick scoring.

In the girls' final, the strong L. B. C. sextette, paced by sharp-shooting Joyce Currie with 32 markers, led the Winnboro team throughout to register their tourney title win.

Never coming closer than nine points after the first period, the losers were sparked by Freida Bonner, Gloria Walker, and Carrice Russell, with 12, 11, and nine points respectively.

Outstanding player of the game defensively, and the most aggressive and hard-working guard in the tournament was L. B. C.'s June Diamond, whose fierce defensive play and remarkable ball-stealing was the highlight of the game.

Robbins Downs Brumley, Takes Seniors' Title

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 21 (AP)—Thomas C. Robbins, Larchmont Acres, N. Y., today won the American Seniors Golf Association Tournament with a 3 and 2 final round victory over Judd Brumley, Greenville, Tenn.

Robbins played errorless golf, carding three birdies and getting pars on all other holes. Brumley had four birdies but also had four one-over-par which cost him the match.

Robbins was three up at the turn and three under par. Brumley was even par at this point and went another down when he lost the 11th hole. Brumley won his first hole when he halved the 15th, but the match ended on the next green when they halved it with pars.

6:30 p.m., found the Justice Oilers of Jena, defending Oden Independents, 42-31, in a hard-fought tilt. In the tussle, nip and tuck the whole way, never more than four points separated the teams until late in the fourth stanza, when the Oiler sextette forged ahead for the winning margin.

Velma Hudnall, with 14 points, led the Justice pointmakers; while Ann Crawford was high for the losers, with nine.

The boys' consolation game was forfeited to Wayne Confectioners by the Texaco Town quint.

Wayne Confectioners of Warren, Ark., opened yesterday's show at noon by defeating the Queensboro Independents of Shreveport, 60-46, leading all the way as the Arkansas Tech ace, Center Alvin Thomas, tallied 13 points for scoring honors. Chick Wright paced the losers with 10.

The second quarter final pitted two of the past college season's rivals with the Centenary quint, playing a Texaco Town of Coushatta, defeating the Ruston Scavengers (Louisiana Tech), 52-42, in a nip and tuck game that was tied 23-23 at the half. Giant "Toor" Hester, controlling the boards for the victors, and sticky guard Wright led Texaco while heady Billy Wiggins and Roy Valley were Ruston's aces.

Nichols Motors led the entire route to whip the strong Wayne Confectioners, 93-70, in the first men's semi-final with team sponsor Curtis Nichols alternating two separate teams. Johnny McConathy led the Motormen as big "Hound" poured in 20 points, closely followed at the Nichols court ace, Bob Meador, with 13. Thomas again was high for Wayne with 21.

Kilpatrick-Gresham gained the finals by beating Texaco, 76-73, in the best of the afternoon games. The score was tied eight times in the first period alone and stood 39-all at the half. The see-saw battle was tied 66-66 with four minutes to go when K-G took a three-point lead and managed a successful free-throw to win. Bobby Lowther led K-G with 23 points. Hester and Wright had 15 and 14 for Texaco.

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 21 (AP)—Kentucky Basketball Coach Adolph Rupp today filed a formal denial of charges that he took part in a gambling operation with Frank Costello and Ed Curd.

Pure... Silk

A new manner of dress that is gaining converts each season for men who demand the best. We want to let you know that Fink's is headquarters in Monroe for Fashion Park Silks.

DRESS-UP FOR EASTER

There are silks and silks... and Fashion Park Silks

Douppioni is a natural silk yarn that right mightily be called a "phenomenon of nature." Often, in the cocoons, two silk worms will spin themselves together in a kind of Siamese Twin fashion which prevents the delicate filaments of silk from being evenly reeled from the cocoons. Therefore, a knotted or nubbed silk yarn is obtained which is especially desirable for fabrics requiring an uneven texture.

This nubbed yarn, which is thicker than average, is called "Douppioni," derived from the Italian word "doppio" meaning double. The finest Douppioni yarn of which Fashion Park suits are made, is of Italian origin.

Fink's

TAILORED AT FASHION PARK

Here is as fine as you can go. Light as a whisper—luxurious beyond description—and with reasonable care will last many seasons. The natural aliveness of Douppioni silk allows the suit to "breathe"—imparting a cool, light, and just right feeling on the warmest and most humid days. Slowly and expertly needled in the tailor shops at Fashion Park.

Army Identifies Colonel Who Was Saved By La. GI

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 21 (AP) — The Army today identified Lt. Col. Harry A. Clark as the officer saved by a Louisiana soldier in Korean action.

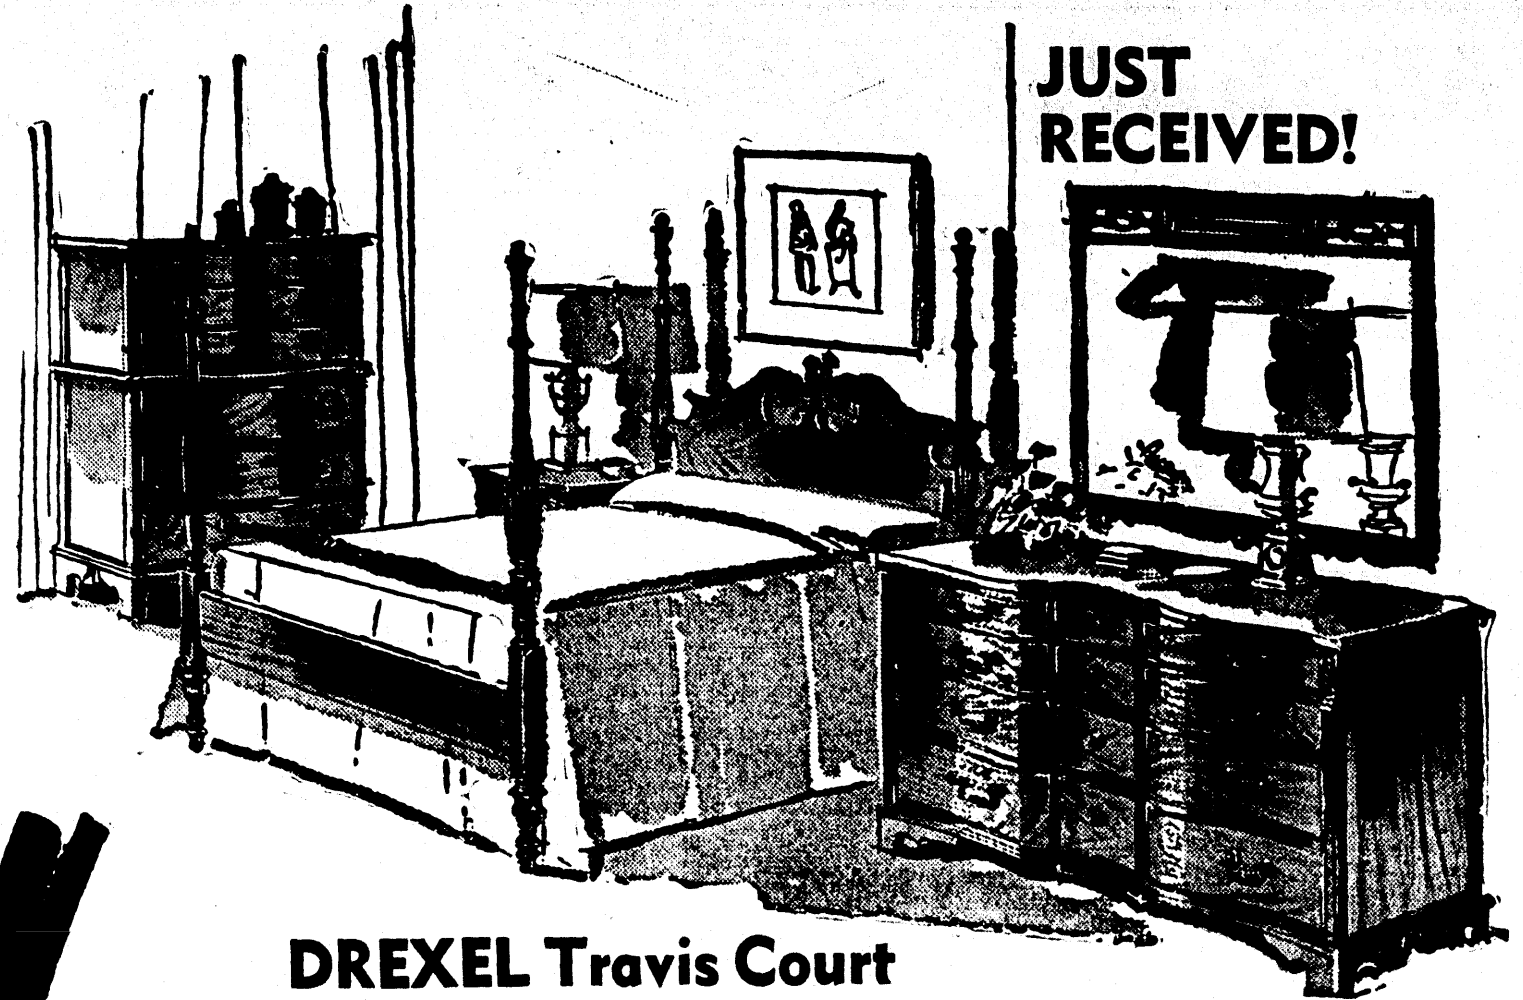

Col. Clark was wounded by mortar fire and was being administered first aid when the Chinese Reds launched another attack on the hill.

Pvt. Courtney Stanley, 19-year-old Negro infantryman from Mansfield, La., stood guard over the colonel and killed eight Reds in the attack. Several other Americans were saved by Stanley's action in addition to Col. Clark.

Stanley, called "the bravest man I've ever seen" by Clark, said he "was helped by the Lord" as he fought off the Chinese.

The colonel's wife who lives here with their four children was notified by War Department officials of her husband's wounds.

PROOF! Gertrude Berg, TV star of The Goldbergs, watched as a full glass of water was placed on one of 837 independent action Beautyrest springs. She was amazed that water did not spill when near-by springs were pushed down. Reason: Beautyrest is made differently. Springs not "tied together." Result: No sag, just even, "Levelized Support."

PROOF! Above, John Ringling North (President of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus) is hoisting all five tons into his air, with rear feet planted on Beautyrest. (Note right foot on edge of mattress.) Yet even this weight failed to break down patented, sag-proof edges. Proof: Beautyrest is built to stand hard use.

PROOF! "I hereby certify," says Mrs. Anita Propack, New York City Notary Public, "that I went to the United States Testing Co., and saw the brutal 'Torture Tester' machine pound leading mattresses till they broke down. Beautyrest took 740,744 more poundings, lasted twice as long as any other mattress tested. It really can take it!"

The altar was beautifully decorated with a profusion of white stock, Easter lilies and white snapdragons. White cathedral tapers burned in six graduated candelabra casting a glow on the wedding party. In the foreground were copper containers of Difenbachia. White stock with white satin ribbon marked pews for members of the two families.

A concert of pre-nuptial music rendered by Mrs. Harold L. Booth, organist, included selections "Love Theme from Romeo and Juliet," "Liebestraum," "My Wonderful One," "A Dream," by Faure and "Nocturne" by Chopin. Mrs. Booth also accompanied Mr. Ned Wright, who sang, "O Promise Me," "Through the Years" and the "Lord's Prayer." The traditional wedding marches marked the beginning and end of the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her wedding gown of traditional white satin, the portrait neckline softly curved of Alencon lace embellished in seed pearls and sequins. Long tapering sleeves ending in points of the lace, fitted bodice, and full skirt ending in a cathedral train.

Her tiered veil of French illusion fell from a crown of the Alencon lace, outlined with pearls and sequins. She wore as her only ornament a six graduated candelabra carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and white camellias.

Miss Bettie Rea Fox, maid of honor, was wearing a gown of net in spring green with sequins highlighting the crushed bodice, the stole caught at the back in a bow-knot. The full skirt was worn over a hoop. Bridesmaids were Miss Carolyn Tabb, Miss Helen Ann Garrett, Miss Pearl Tinsley, and Miss Frances Peyton. They wore identical gowns as the maid of honor and all carried bouquets of crescent shape of rose tulips.

Mr. J. David Hamilton, father of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Dr. John Langlow, Mr. Robert E. Van Hook, Mr. Jack Hamilton, cousin of the groom, and Dr. Dan Moody, cousin of the groom.

Mrs. Miracle, mother of the bride, was lovely in a floor-length dinner dress in seafoam green chiffon, three-quarter sleeves with the bodice softly shirred with a sweetheart neckline. She wore white gloves and a corsage of pink roses pinned to her evening bag. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Hamilton, was wearing a floor-length dinner gown in teal chiffon with blouse of imported white Alencon lace of floral motif. She wore a corsage of pink roses with white gloves.

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's family.

Pink "happy day" roses were placed at vantage points throughout with an arrangement of "happy day" roses centering the dining table flanked by silver candelabra burning white candles.

Receiving the guests with the bride party were Mrs. Miracle, Mrs. Hamilton and Mr. Hamilton. Mrs. Miracle greeted guests at the door.

Mrs. Ford Stinson presided at the punch bowl with Miss Katherine Turner at the bride's book. Assisting in the serving courtesies were Miss Jean Hardin, Miss Peggy Pollard, Mrs. Clifford Smelser, Mrs. John Graves, Mrs. Jerry Teague, Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Entrikin, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Fox, Mrs. J. R. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Warren, Mrs. A. L. Pollard, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Kay Hodges, Mr. and Mrs. Gladden Parker and

Mrs. A. S. Tidwell Hostess To Miro Book Club Meeting

The semi-monthly meeting of Miro Book Club met in the home of Mrs. A. S. Tidwell on Monday with twelve members and one visitor present.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. D. M. Moore. The collect was repeated in unison, and the pledge of allegiance was given to the flag.

During the business session special emphasis was made through G. F. W. C. and the state chairman, on the "Bond A Month" program.

Mrs. J. H. McCormick was elected to membership.

Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, acted as chairman of the program, in the absence of Mrs. Jett, and presented Mrs. A. B. Myatt who gave a most interesting review of Chapter 13, "Living Ideas in America" by Henry Steel Commager.

Mrs. McCormick said in part: "In this book a famous American historian brings together in most readable form and with extensive connecting commentary of his own the basic writing both old and new which describe and interpret the great American idea-stories, fragments of auto - biographies, memoirs, speeches, documents and historical accounts."

"He points to the emergence of America, out of obscurity, to a world power in the decade of the 40's as the most marvelous unfolding in the whole history of our country."

"America was from the very beginning an integral part of what we have come to call the Atlantic Community, and therefore her independence with Europe was inescapable. There was the principle of isolationism, separated as we are by a big ocean on the east and one on the west. One which is very familiar, is the sense of mission toward the rest of the world, a mission of responsibility for liberty and democracy everywhere. He points out one basic principle which is shared by all the major powers, the search for national security. Thus America achieved power and responsibility that even the most enraptured of our fathers had not anticipated. Being the only democratic power able to resist communism, America was enjoined to commit herself to that task throughout the world. And at the very moment she embarks on this perilous task we find ourselves in the midst of the atomic era, face to face with a choice between the quick and the dead. Yet behind the portentous dread of the split atom lies a new hope, which, if we take possession of, with Christian faith, can work our salvation.

"We must choose between world peace and world destruction. Ours is the challenge."

Delicious refreshments were served to Mrs. Neal W. McHenry, Mrs. D. M. Moore, Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, Mrs. J. W. Murphy, Mrs. A. B. Myatt, Mrs. A. L. Peters, Mrs. John Pracher, Mrs. F. L. Smith, Mrs. George Temple, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. R. L. Wood and a guest, Miss Juanita Porter.

Pageant Royalty Entertained At Supper Party

Mr. and Mrs. E. Asa Kiper of Wisner, were hosts at a supper party on Thursday evening. They complimented the King and the Queen and their court of the Confederate pageant held in Natchez, this month in connection with the Garden Pilgrimage. The queen is Miss Jane Randolph Feltus, popular young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Feltus of Natchez and a student of Sweetbrier College. The king is Robert Y. Wood of Natchez. The affair took place at the Kiper home in Wisner.

Masses of early spring blossoms were arranged throughout the drawing room. The mantle was offset with brass girandole holding clusters of pink magnolias, red bud flowering almond and camellias. Bouquets of lavender iris, pink azaleas and other flowers complimented the floral setting.

A buffet supper was served in the dining room where the table was covered with a Madria cloth and centered with a crystal basket filled with yellow iris and trailing garlands of yellow roses. The center piece was flanked with antique silver candelabra holding yellow lighted tapers.

Mrs. Kiper received in an after five frock of mist grey faille. The fitted fasque was caught at the waist line with a handmade grey velvet rose and she chose matching accessories.

Miss Feltus chose a cocktail frock of imported cotton of blended lavender and gold tints. The halter bodice was attached to a bouffant skirt and she wore a brief jacket of gold poodle cloth.

She was presented with a corsage of pink camellias.

Mrs. Feltus wore a gown of pale lavender wool. The bodice was created with a low rounded neckline, while the material was threaded with silver braiding. She selected a stole of matching wool.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Hammons of Wisner introduced a program of games following the arrival of the guests.

Lida Benton Study Group Has Meeting

Mrs. L. C. Bassett, Study Group Chairman, reports a lively round table discussion which was held at Lida Benton School Auditorium March 12th.

First of all, everyone agreed that a child must feel that he is loved and wanted. He will have a more confident outlook; confidence in self being of prime importance. Health is the most important part of any child's life. If a child is healthy all his faculties are more acute.

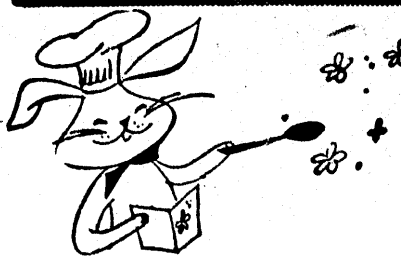

A child's development should start and continue in the home. His school life and association with other children plays an important part as he develops and grows. There is the necessity of getting along with other children and learning to respect each individual and his personality. Proper supervision in recreation develops self confidence and the ability to get along with others. Good will and "togetherness" should be stressed in the community. With the changing world and fast pace of life it is more important than ever to help children be prepared and capable of facing life in these times.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY — Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Walter Glenn, shown above at the open house held in their honor on their fifty-fourth wedding anniversary which was celebrated Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Glenn Honored At Open House

Couple Celebrate Wedding Anniversary At Thursday Event

Rich gold tones were employed in decorative notes when open house was observed on Thursday evening between the hours of 6 and 8 o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Glenn.

The festive occasion honored the couple on their fifty-fourth wedding anniversary and came as a complete surprise to them.

The reception room was accented by arrangements of yellow gladioli and blue iris. Centering the table in the reception room was the two-tier yellow wedding cake, beautifully decorated in white roses and where the announcement was made in festive icing of yellow with "54" on the top tier. Surrounding this were crystal candelabra holding burning yellow tapers encircled with yellow and blue iris. All this reflected in a mirror over the mantel.

Mrs. Glenn was wearing a becoming dress of navy silk shantung with corsage of yellow roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn were married March 12, 1889 at Talladega Springs, Ala. where they resided until 1916 when they came to Monroe, La. to make their home. Mrs. Glenn was the former Mabel Lee McGee, daughter of late Martha Jane and Dr. Benjamin Franklin McGee and was born at Childersburg, Ala., April 29, 1877. Mr. Glenn, the oldest of eight children of Charlotte and John Thomas Glenn was born in Trinity County, Texas on October 2, 1873. When Mr. Glenn was a very small child the family moved to Childersburg, Ala. Mr. Glenn was a prominent Duachita parish planter for many years and is a retired railroad man. Impaired health in the last few years has prevented Mr. and Mrs. Glenn from their usual active outdoor life but they still are very busy with chickens and garden and enjoy visits with close friends and children. Mr. Glenn is a member of the Catholic church and Mrs. Glenn the First Methodist Church in Monroe.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn are parents of eight children, seven of whom are still living. Aside from rearing their own children, they have two grandsons whom they have reared and claim their own sons. They are Charles Edward Nugent and Bobby Ray Nugent.

All the children live in Monroe with the exception of one in Vicksburg, Miss. They are Miss Lillie Glenn, Mrs. Beatrice Nugent, Mrs. Katie Sawyer, Mrs. Corrine Landry, Vicksburg, Miss., Mrs. Mary Stella Nolan, Mrs. Allie Mae Irby and Walter H. Glenn.

They also have seven granddaughters and seven grandsons and four great granddaughters and one great grandson. Three of the grandsons are now seeing armed service in Korea and Germany.

Over fifty close friends called between the appointed hours to enjoy the occasion with this couple.

When soap or detergent and water are allowed to spill and dry on a wood floor, alkaline reaction sometimes occurs, causing dark spots. To remove this discoloration, first take off wax with naphtha. Then wash the area with vinegar, keeping it on spots three or four minutes. Wipe dry with clean cloth. Repeat if necessary. Rinse with clear water and re-wax.

Roamin' In The Rural

With Easter only two weeks away all of us are clothes minded and some of us will be making our outfit. Some of us have problems in construction. "I just can't get a pattern that fits me" is a statement we so often hear among women. Another remark you often hear is, "I selected this pattern because it looked easy to make, but my, its very difficult." Well, here is an opportunity to get some help on these problems.

Miss Margaret Brumby, L. S. U. Clothing Specialist and Mrs. Jane Scott, a New York representative of the pattern companies, will give answers to these problems in a demonstration which will be given Tuesday, March 24th at 10:00 a.m. in the Agricultural Auditorium, West Monroe. Models will be used to show how to determine the correct pattern size for various adult figures — the prime requirement for making a well-fitted garment. Incidentally, Mrs. Scott is herself an example of a perfect half-size figure.

They will also present easy-to-make patterns and point out the features which make them easy to make. Everyone is invited to see this demonstration. Immediately following the demonstration a short clothing leaders' meeting will be held by Miss Brumby — so leaders be sure to be here.

Simple Sewing Groups
Two clubs have finished their simple sewing schools, Watson and Fairbanks. Eleven women participated and we had lots of fun, too. Fifty other simple sewing groups are planned. Swartz, Thrifty Home-maker, Colony, Lamkin, Cadeville. See the clothing leader if you're interested.

The women worked on the following problems:
Trueing the grain of the material; and keeping the grain true, and such construction problems as making bound buttonholes, setting in sleeves, and putting in the zipper. If you need help on these problems, join us.

Blooming Shrubs
Well, when we see all these colorful blooming flowers in the yards, we all want more of them. We can keep the yards colorful longer by planting summer blooming shrubs, altheas, vitex, crepe myrtle of many colors, florabunda roses, lantana, kerria, yucca, buddias and don't forget hebes which are propagated here. Then there are many colorful perennials, salvia, sweet williams phlox, lilies, pinks, goldenglow, etc.

Miracle Fibers
In the past few years there has been a virtual avalanche of new man-made fibers, including nylon, orlon, dacron, vicara, dynel, fiber glass and acrilon. If you feel confused about these new "miracle fibers" just remember that no one is fully informed. We have had cotton and wool for thousands of years yet don't know all about them.

Check the labels of these fibers for service ability. Usually in advertising these fibers, more is said about appearance, texture, and fashion. If you are counting pennies it is more important to check on wearing qualities. Here are some tips worth remembering on clothing.

If your nylons have become gray, yellow, or dingy looking, use this rinse: To one quart of lukewarm water add two teaspoons of water softener and half the recommended amount of any chlorine bleach. Let clothes stand in the rinse for one-half hour, then dry. Repeat the rinse with a fresh solution if dinginess remains.

To help overcome static electricity in your garments, add one-half tablespoon of white vinegar to the bowl of rinse water.

To clean some of those unusually dirty shirt and blouse collars, especially the orlon ones, use the of the liquid shampoos as a wet solvent.

A rinse of one-half teaspoon of sal soda in a pint of water will help prevent fade-fading of washable acetate garments.

Detergents are death to rubber. Therefore, in washing garments such as girdles and bras, use a water softener with soap to do a good cleaning job.

See you next Sunday.

Review Club Hears Three Book Reviews At Meeting

The Review Club met March 16 in the lovely home of Mrs. Durwood Griffin on the White's Ferry Road. After the business session, a highly interesting and very timely program was presented.

Mrs. D. W. Griffith, education chairman, summarized an article from Clubwoman magazine entitled "Communism in Schools." Both book reviews dealt with the terrifying, brutal power of the Communist idea as conveyed in the writings of Arthur Koestler, a former Communist. Mrs. C. B. Braun discussed his novel, "The Age of Longing," in which the author explores the moral chaos of the European scene to arouse people to the danger of apathy toward communism and to show man's need and desire for a faith by which to live.

Your Problems

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Mrs. Landers: I am 17 and a senior in high school. My father tells me it is an insult to a girl if I don't make a pass at her — even on the first date — and also try to kiss her. Maybe I'm just a pill, but I am no Romeo. I keep telling my father that the girls I date are respectable, not the "wild" type. I don't believe in being aggressive but I could be wrong. Do girls really resent it if a boy doesn't get fresh or aggressive? Don't get me wrong. I'm no horn-rimmed stuffed shirt; just the reserved, handsome type. —J.S.B.

In other words, man to man, father is telling you to sow your wild oats. Tell father that theory went out with the story of the stork. He must be a carry-over from the naughty, roaring '20s. Tell him, too, that today teen-agers do not have to experiment in order to solve the mystery of life. They are a bunch of well-informed kids who, for the most part, learn all about kissing, petting, dating and the responsibilities of marriage from books, counselors and classes.

The condition of teen-agers' minds, today, is a lot healthier, cleaner and above-board than it was in father's day. You don't have to make "passes" at a girl; a decent one will laugh at you and think you "silly," or, refuse to date you again. A kiss is a different story. A girl likes to feel that she has attracted you enough to want to kiss her, but you have to know your girl; some resent it on the first date or two. Good luck "handsome."

Dear Mrs. Landers: I am the mother of a 2-year-old daughter and live with my mother and sisters. My husband and I have been separated for six months. He drank heavily and abused me and the baby so much I had to leave. I went back to him four different times but it did no good. I am only 23 but do not date anyone. Recently, my husband started taking me out once a week and my mother and sisters are furious because I have gone. I think it is the only way I may ever be able to get him to straighten out as he seems to love the baby and me; it also seems to be the only way I can get him to pay me regularly. Do you think it wrong? Do you think I should consider going back to him again? —F.T.

I can't think of a better date than with the father of your child. Let mother and your sisters get furious; any effort you can make to rebuild your marriage is worthwhile. Just don't be hasty about going back to your husband. Dangle him for a long time until he learns to live without drinking and proves to you that he will behave permanently.

Dear Mrs. Landers: In all of the seven years of our marriage my wife and I have argued at least once very two weeks. Almost every argument now ends up with her saying that she hates me and that our marriage is a mistake. I get so upset I can't eat or sleep. I feel like going out on a foot but think maybe it would be better to leave her than to become an alcoholic. Whenever I mention a separation she says, "Good, then

Miss Ella Sue Gates Is Honored At Dodson Party

Mrs. B. M. Stovall Entertains Bride-Elect At Announcement Tea

Mrs. B. M. Stovall entertained in her home in Dodson Saturday with an announcement tea in honor of Miss Ella Sue Gates, of Dodson, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Doyle Parker, of Monroe, is announced today.

For this occasion the bride-elect was wearing a two-piece spring model in bluish pink Salina cloth with a corsage of Sweetheart roses. The hostess, Mrs. Stovall, chose a black and white ensemble of brocade cotton with corsage of pink split carnations.

Greeting the guests at the door

maybe I can do as I please without a warden watching my every move." She goes out at least four days a week. I go once a week and then get her silent treatment for the remainder of the week. Do you think I should leave her until we find out our faults or stay and become a nervous wreck? —M. P.

Why, you poor boy. "Nerves," and everything! What good will the separation do? Go to an outsider, now (both of you) and let that person ferret out the cause of your extreme incompatibility. Seven years of such childishness on the part of each of you should prove to you that something should be done. A psychologist or a good marriage counselor is indicated.

Confidentially: A's Guy — The girl is making an utter fool of you, playing fast and loose. For heaven's sake, wake up and don't give her another opportunity, even if she throws herself at you!

I. G. Some men are that way; I don't like it and would prefer not to know about it. Yes, he can love you under the circumstances. (Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of News Star.) Distributed by Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate.

March Gardening Ideas Given By Mrs. Swift

If you haven't worked up your shrubbery beds and borders, do so now and fertilize with a good commercial fertilizer such as 4-12-4 or 5-10-5 at the rate of 3 or 4 pounds per 100 square feet.

Now is the time to spray Camellias for the control of scale. Be sure to use a white oil emulsion and get the spray materials well under the leaves. Fertilize your Camellias. For a three foot plant use about 1/4 pound applied in a thin band under the spread of the branches. Pull back the mulch. Apply fertilizer. Soak it down well. Replace mulch. Fertilize azaleas just as they stop blooming. Use same method and amount as for camellias. Prune azaleas while they are blooming so you can use the blossoms in your house. Cut back all long branches that have only a few blossoms at the end. Cut off where branch joins the main stalk. They will be rewarded by having several new shoots come out at the place you cut. This will give you nice, full plants.

Prune all spring flowering shrubs, such as spirea (bridal wreath), weigela and forsythia just as soon as they have finished blooming. Cut out the oldest branches, going down into the plant where the limb joins the main stalk. New growth comes out where you prune.

Now is the time to start a new lawn or work over an old lawn that is in bad shape.

Dahlias may be planted to avoid injuring the tubers later, place the stakes at time of planting.

Chrysanthemums should be divided and re-set in March or April. Many people prefer to start their plants from cuttings each year.

Here are some flowers to plant this month: Chines Forget-me-not, African Golden Daisy, Sweet Alyssum, Forget-me-not, Early Cosmos Blue Salvia, Red Salvia, Four O'Clock, Moonflower, Gaillardia, Hasterium, Periwinkle, Candytuft, Calliopis, Portulaca, Ageratium, Feverfew, Marigold, Scabiosa, Verbena, Torenia, Petunia, Balsam, Zinnia, Phlox.

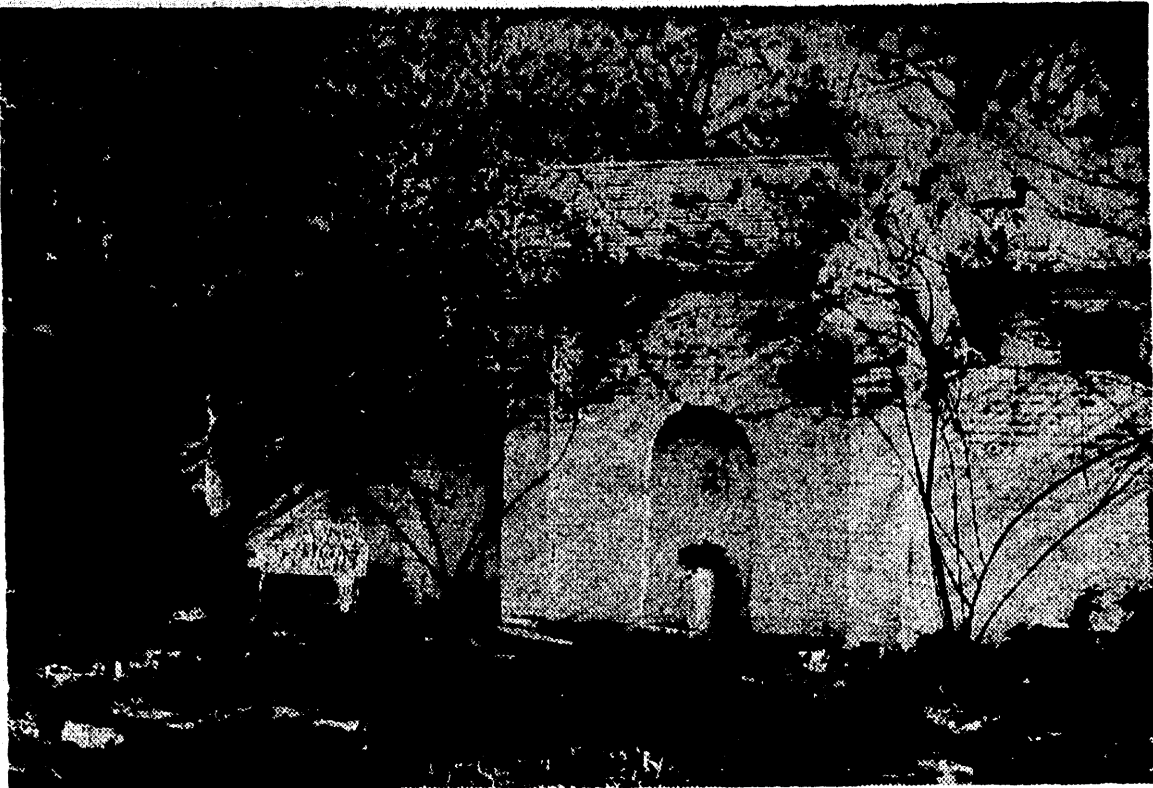

Prune, fertilize and spray roses for leaf spot using Bordeaux mixture spray. Spray ground, stems and leaves on both sides.

Call 3-2251 for a camellia or rose bulletin or both.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Q—Is it advisable to grow mushrooms in the house cellar?

A—Advisable if treated as a novelty and one can maintain a humid atmosphere and a temperature strictly between 50 and 60 degrees. Become well informed with their requirements before investing. Well composted manure is a necessity.

CRABAPPLE TREES ARE IN BLOOM — At one end of the path in the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde R. Brown on North 5th St., two large crabapple trees cast shadows on the garden wall.

Waterproof Garden Club

The Waterproof Garden Club held their March meeting at 10 o'clock in the morning in the Waterproof High School Gymnasium. After reports on plans for the Flower Show, which is to be held on May 5, Mrs. Doty, the president introduced Mrs. V. S. Garnett, who, assisted by Miss Juanita Porter of Monroe, conducted an all day workshop.

Mrs. Garnett in a very interesting manner explained the necessity of being familiar with outlines of flower arrangements. The next phase of her discussion dealt with the conditioning of flowers for exhibit, the use of proper types of containers was strongly recommended. Attention was also called to the arrangement of dry materials and the many types of plants that were available for the purpose. Following her lecture, Mrs. Garnett very graciously answered many questions about the members of the club.

During the recess period a delicious buffet luncheon was served with Mrs. Louis Preis, Mrs. Truma James, Mrs. Stanton Rife, Mrs. Oerin James, and Mrs. Lee Rife as hostesses.

In the afternoon every one made a number of very creditable arrangements with suggestions from Mrs. Garnett and Miss Porter.

While in Waterproof Mrs. Garnett and Miss Porter were guests of Mrs. K. O. Doty.

The Home Shift

With

Mildred Swift

Haven't we had a lovely week? Guess we'll have that Easter cold spell though so you girls can't wear the new outfit.

Your Sunday Drive

Really, there are so many beautiful yards this year, it's hard to decide the ones to call to your attention, but here a few you'll enjoy seeing. First in West Monroe. The Feazel home, 1015 Trenton is always a treat to see. So many of you have said you've never seen a Lady Banksia rose. Turn right when you go off the new bridge. That's Trenton Street. Turn at Vernon which is one block from the bridge. On the corner is the McGee house. In the neutral ground you'll see a Lady Banksia. It's really a climber but Mrs. McGee is just letting it droop which gives a pretty effect. Mr. Fred M. Grant is just proud of his place, 103 Filhiol, West Monroe. He says they have something blooming all the year. The house on the corner of 200 Linderman has more thrift in bloom than I've ever seen in one place. The color blends so beautifully with the Formosa azaleas and red buds.

In Monroe, south side, go by Mrs. Ola Mae Passman's place, 801 South 4th. The entire yard is lovely but the lawn drew my attention. It is so smooth and well sod. The Jack Lanier garden, 610 Georgia Street has the healthiest shrubs I have ever seen. Notice how beautifully the green color of the house blends with the yard. Several called me to be sure to see Mrs. Pettit's yard, 709 South 2nd. I just couldn't get there but I'll take the neighbors word for it that it's a yard worth seeing. They especially mentioned the azaleas growing around the pines.

On the north side in Monroe, go by the E. F. Windes home 2505 Myrtle and see what can be done in a yard in one year. Eugene and Virginia have spent lots of time in their garden and it really shows the results of their labors. Go on up Island Drive. There's beauty everywhere. Note especially the Wilson Ewing home, 2107. Mildred is a past president of the Monroe Garden Club and a wonderful gardener. You'll see here what I mean by a pine thicket. Her dogwoods and wisterias are a sight to behold.

Turn right at the end of Island Drive and come back down Pargoud Boulevard. There are a number of new homes here and the owners take such pride in their yards. Go back up Forsythe and see the study in whites in the C. U. Johnson home at 504. Laura has white dogwoods, azaleas, iris and flowering peach. Bill Hardin says he has the prettiest bridal wreath in Monroe. I just didn't get by his house at 401 Hilton but I love to see a young man interested in his yard. Go by and see for yourself then tell Bill what you think.

A School Masterpiece
A noted psychologist said "A child brought up in beauty has a higher I.Q. than one brought up in drabness." Well — those pupils at Ransom must certainly have a high I.Q. Please drive by Ransom School, 420 Wheeler, West Monroe, and see what Mrs. Clark, the principal, the teachers, parents, and children have done. This is the most beautifully planted school I have ever seen, and they have

Southern Gardener

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

In northern gardens in this country, the many named varieties of summer phlox have long been considered the backbone of the garden. In June, July, August and September. Here in the Southern States, however, our terrible drought has been so difficult for these beautiful phloxes that we have not planted them to the extent that those in the north have. Or perhaps we have planted them and lost them with red spider and with the mildew that comes on the leaves.

When phlox plants are not kept well watered and are not doted with sulphur, they seldom come somewhat like picked chickens. The foliage dries up and hangs down in strings even if the plants through our summers to their flowering period without looking somewhat like picked chickens. The foliage dries up and hangs down in strings even if the plants do bloom. More and more gardeners, that phlox is really worth the time it takes to dust it with sulphur when they are dusting the roses. It can be watered carefully, too, with the nozzle off so that you do not leave the foliage wet for the mildew.

If you are bothered with a done everything themselves. Teachers and parents brought in extra shrubs, money was made at school and a few plants bought on sale. Each room claims the bed next to their room and they are responsible for that. It's all a result of a good citizenship program taught in the school. The day we were there, several boys took the wheel barrow at recess, dug some soil from a high spot on the grounds and filled in a low place. Isn't this wonderful training for our children? I saw not one sign of any garbage, refuse or paper on the grounds. Those interested in beautifying their school would benefit by seeing what Ransom has done and by talking to Mrs. Clark and finding out how it was done. Congratulations to Ransom and thanks for a lovely visit. I've never seen more courteous or hospitable children. Get out and walk around the grounds. The back is prettier than the front.

A Demonstration
On Thursday, March 26, I'll be at 2702 South Grand to demonstrate speed-up methods in sewing. Drop by any time after 9:30 and see six tricks to make your work easier. I need four more leaders to help with glove classes. If you'll help, call me at 3-2251. The classes will be given in April.

Food Plentiful
Dairy products get a nod as plentiful for March. Beef makes up greater part of the meat supply. The food packaging trend leans toward smaller containers. Onion production should continue high for the year.

That's all for today. See you next Sunday.

Labor-Saving Tips To Garden Toppers

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—Looking ahead to a busy season of gardening, you're probably already begrudging the time you'll have to spend caring for the lawn. If you're a begrudger, there's glad news for you.

Maybe you've been taking care of your lawn the hard way. Dr. Ralph E. Engel, turf specialist at Rutgers, offers some take-it-easy suggestions good for your lawn and good for you. Before you do anything else, he advises taking your mower to a man who knows more about such things than you do, and have him sharpen and adjust it. Doing this job now will insure having a mower ready to purr when you need it. And you'll probably make a friend of your mower-fixer because you're not waiting to have the over-haul job done until the day before the grass is almost too long to mow.

Dr. Engel preached a gospel that sounded like heresy to me when I first heard it.

"Be sure," he pleads, "to have the bedknife of your mower adjusted so that it will cut at a height of no less than 1 1/2 inches if yours is the typical Kentucky bluegrass-fescue lawn."

A lawn cut shorter than that is being scalped, to his notion. Scalped and starved. The closer grass is cut the less leaf surface remains to make food. A lawn with a crew cut is prey for crabgrass and other enemies. It suffers more in dry weather than grass that is allowed to grow a bit longer.

Besides, the mower set at the inch and a half cut takes less energy to push. That's why this week-end gardener can so readily heed Dr. Engel's take-it-easy advice. And anyway, I've found it works.

Do you don't like to rake up clippings? You don't have to if you mow regularly and when the grass is dry. These shorter clippings sit down to the soil where they form moisture — conserving mulch and furnish free plant food. Better for the lawn, better for you. However, you're not excused from raking if your lawn is made of bentgrass that is rather easily smothered. Bent is cut shorter than bluegrass-fescue.

Don't make a horse of yourself dragging a heavy roller over your lawn, Dr. Engel urges. The purpose of rolling is not to even the surface of the lawn, but only to press roots gently back into place if they have been heaved out during cold weather.

The roller need not weigh more than 100 pounds for each foot of roller width. A water ballast roller need be only about a third full. If you must roll, be sure to pick a dry sunny day when your shoes do not pick up moisture as you walk across the lawn.

Most lawns in acid soil areas are improved with 50 to 75 pounds of ground limestone on each 1,000 square feet every 2 or 3 years.

Your lawn probably will get off to a better start with a spring tonic of 10 to 20 pounds of complete fertilizer on each 1,000 square feet. The sooner you spread lime the better. Put the fertilizer on as soon as growth starts.

State Conference Reports Heard At March Meeting Of Fort Miro Chapter, D.A.R.

Reports from the State Conference in Monroe earlier this month highlighted the program meeting of Fort Miro Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held in the home of Mrs. John Theus, Saturday March 14th. Reports were given by Mrs. Shelby Meek, Mrs. John J. Potts, Mrs. Stanley Blower, Mrs. M. S. McGuire, Mrs. John Coon, Mrs. Herbert Steed, Mrs. John P. Noel and Mrs. C. E. Faulk. Of particular interest in Mrs. Faulk's report was the fact that there are now three hundred and fifty-nine books in the State Circulating Library dealing with genealogy. These books are of inestimable value in completing family lines for prospective new members or establishing additional lines for present members. Mrs. Faulk also pointed out that the State D.A.R. Student Loan Fund now totals $4,736.44; that the Girl Home-maker's project sponsored by the State organization was won by Talulah High School and that there are fifty-five Junior D.A.R. Clubs over the state.

In the absence of Mrs. Floyd Martin, Miss Frances Flanders, Regent, brought an appeal to the chapter from Crossnore School, located in the Western North Carolina Mountains for second-hand things to be sold in the "village store." The letter stated "There's no limit to what we can sell," and they do sell everything from clothes of all sizes and both sexes to jewelry and tools. This call is a challenge to all members since they state their efforts have been

A silver tray of lovely white camellias graced one end of the table; flanked by green candles in silver candlesticks.

Mrs. John Sholars poured coffee from the silver service. Tiny hot biscuits stuffed with sausages, date bars and salted nuts were served.

In the absence of the club president, Mrs. Caraway, Mrs. John Sholars, vice-president presided over the business meeting. The roll call, minutes, and communications were then read. The club voted to contribute $10.00 to the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Ouachita Parish Public Library Adds New Books To Collection

During the past week an unusual collection of new books has been acquired by the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Each book is different and will appeal to a different type of reader. "Far From the Customary Skies" by Warren Eyster is a novel of men on a U. S. destroyer. The reviews compare it favorably with "The Caine Mutiny" and predict that it will appeal to the same audience. If this is so, it will surely be popular, for after two years and a large number of duplicate copies purchased we still have a waiting list on it. "The Stones of the House" by Theodore Morrison is the story of a man devoted to an idea who wants to do good but doubts his own strength. Its picture of a college community and of the trials besetting an administrator will interest anyone who has ever known professional responsibilities. This is the quiet reflective type of book which will appeal to a large audience.

Entirely different is "Draw Near to Battle" by Jerry Wheelwright. This is a story of action and adventure and is concerned with the exploits of a young American who served in Napoleon's army. Mr. Wheelwright is the author of the extremely popular "Kentucky Stand" which came out last year. It is this book as good as the other one, it will have a large audience. It will appeal to those who like their adventure with a historical background.

Those who like realism in their reading and do not flinch from a touch of the south will welcome a new book by Richard Wright, author of "Black Boy." Another story of violence is "A Stranger Came to the Farm" by Mika Waltari. Against the haunting background of the Finnish countryside with its innumerable lakes and mountains, the drama of the stranger and the mistress of the farm is played out. Mr. Waltari writes with feeling and discernment and draws a most realistic picture of this modern tragedy.

In the lighter vein in "Fever of Love" by Rosamond Harcourt-Smith. This is a witty and sophisticated novel about smart young people in and out of love. The scenes are in the lovely country houses and gardens of the south of England and in the fashionable flats and houses of London. It will appeal to those who like Swinerton, Glasworthy or Evelyn Waugh. "Ready or Not" by Mary Stolz is another fine story for teen age girls. It is concerned with the sixteenth year in the life of Morgan Connor. It is a warm narrative which takes us alternately from tears to laughter.

In the field of non-fiction, there are a number of practical and helpful books. "The Permanent Garden" and "Color in the Garden" are two new volumes by Norman Taylor. Taken together they offer much practical advice for landscape gardeners. The only criticism of these books is their lack of illustrations, but the information given is excellent.

"A New Guide to Better Photography" by Bernice Abbott contains a wealth of information for all of those who are interested in photography as a hobby. It tells you how to select a camera and what equipment is needed to take good pictures. It tells you how to equip a darkroom and how to develop the negative. It deals with exposure problems and the use of filters. It also takes up the art of enlarging, printing and finishing a photograph as well as miniature camera work and color photography. All together this is a splendid book.

A perfectly lovely book for those interested in the art of silk screen printing is "From Old Stencils to Silk Screening" by Jessie Bane Stephenson. It gives a history of the art of stencil work from the earliest examples and gives practical basic instructions for carrying on the process of silk screening. This is a fascinating and practical art and one that repays the time spent in learning it. An added attraction is the fact that one does not have to have an exceptional artistic talent to master it.

Everyone wants a home and dreams of the day when they can have one that is truly theirs. "82 Distinctive Houses From Architectural Record" is the latest book of house plans to be added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. This is a beautiful book and full of the most charming house plans. All of the factual books mentioned today were added to the library as memorial books. Remember your friends and loved ones by placing a book in the Ouachita Parish Public Library.

Girl Scout News

We know that all the members of our Scout family will be interested in knowing that the birthday pennies presented on the birthday program last Sunday amounted to $102.37, not quite as much as last year's. Must have had a few forgetters.

We've heard lots of nice comments on the program. The flag ceremony, Troop 10 in charge, was dignified and impressive. Weren't we proud to have two of our own Scouts, Penny Proffit and Marie Nelson, to play the accompaniment and lead the singing!

The birthday cake looked so pretty surrounded by candles and flowers and so real that someone's little sister asked, "Mother, when are we going to cut the birthday cake?"

And the littlest Brownie who lighted the candle "to grow on" stole the show. She was Doris Solomon of Troop 20, the newest registered troop. Mary Elizabeth Webster read the part of the narrator beautifully, and Troop 14's singing was lovely.

Colorful costumes worn by girls in the tableaux depicting "Hands Around the World" brought out some interesting facts. For example, the Greek head scarf worn by Natalie Roy, exquisitely hand embroidered, is one of two, one made for Queen Frederica of Greece, the other for Mrs. Tom Johnson of our city, from whom Natalie borrowed it. The skirt and bolero are authentic, too.

Lynn Smith and Sarah Shaughnessy worn genuine Japanese Kimono Sarah's daddy sent her; don't know where Lynn got hers. The headpiece of Jennifer Parsons' costume was a genuine Eskimo one.

Seven Kiddie Kits for distribution to children overseas were presented by Troops 35, 37 and 39. Each contained soap and wash cloth, tooth brush and paste, writing materials and other small necessities.

Though the Scouts say that it's more important for every girl to contribute to the Juliette Low Fund, and that the amount doesn't matter, we think Troop 2, which for two years has given the largest amount to the fund, should have special mention.

In true Girl Scout fashion they planned a good time for themselves and their friends and families. They had supper and a square dance for their guests, charged for the supper and came up with a profit for the Juliette Low Fund. Nice combination of fun and work. Mrs. Amos Hood is leader of this live-wire troop. Troop 27 had the next largest offering and Troop 14, third.

Last week, seven troops were planning to be at camp Pine Wood at one time or another this weekend. Troop 30 Friday night and Troop 14 Saturday night and about five troops during the day Saturday found it a good way to spend the first day of spring. We'll be interested in hearing the details.

The latest news about Pine Wood is that the Business and Professional Women's Club is going to build and maintain a sleeping cabin for six girls. The camp committee has chosen a spot near the pine grove outside the fence for what we hope will be the first of three such cabins. Of course, the first thing to be done is to move the fence to take in that pretty knoll. It's Girl Scout cookies that pay for fences and such. It will soon be time to sell those good cookies.

Library To Occupy New Quarters Soon

FERRIDAY, March 21 (Special)—Date for the opening of the Concordia parish library in its new headquarters will probably be the first part of May, according to Mrs. Sidney R. Gray, parish librarian.

Structural changes were completed this week. As soon as the furniture arrives, the library will have moving day. The grounds have been landscaped by the Ferriday Garden Club in cooperation with the Vidalia Garden Club and individual persons.

Mrs. Gray said that library circulation had greatly increased in the parish with last month's totals reaching over 10,000 books and periodicals.

THINK!
WHAT DO YOU Pay for when you buy a piano? Rent on the building? Carpets on the floor? High priced fixtures in the store? Salesmen commissions? A big percentage of the cost of the piano goes for those items. We can save you some money as much as 50 per cent when you buy from us. 3 year guarantee on all our used pianos. PLUS "Registered piano service" backed by the National Association of piano tuners for nearly 50 years. Registered here is another piano value that would cost you $60.00 down town.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Norris Weds Darwin Gayle White

An impressive spring ceremony creating much interest in Mansfield and throughout the surrounding territory is that service which united in marriage Miss Mary Elizabeth

Norris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Courtney R. Norris of Mansfield, and Mr. Darwin Gayle White, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lloyd White of Ruston. Vows were exchanged before the flower-embellished altar of the First Baptist Church of Mansfield with Dr. George A. Ritchey officiating. White baskets of Marconi daisies, stock, and candy tuft flanked the altar with its background of potted palms and graceful candelabra. A kneeling pillow of white satin resting upon a white wrought iron step was in place for the final prayer. Gracing the marble baptistry was a bouquet of white roses, lily of the valley, and fern.

A prelude of soft music was played by Miss Amy Sue Hebert, organist, who wore with her aqua gown a circular spray of yellow daisies clasped in her hair. Miss Hebert accompanied Mr. Earl Roberson, Jr., who sang "Through the Years," and furnished background music for Miss Helen Ritchey as she lighted the white tapers with a candle - lighter decorated with yellow daisies. Miss Ritchey's dress and slippers were complementing shades of aqua, and she, too, clasped a spray of yellow daisies in her hair.

As the traditional Lohengrin march began, bridegroom and groomsmen took their places at the altar. Miss Mary McCasland, junior bridesmaid from Logansport, appeared in an aqua waist-length dress fashioned with panels of lace and pleated net skirts. A fitted stole covered this strapless bodice. Her bouquet was of yellow daisies and pale yellow satin ribbon.

Wearing identical aqua dresses and carrying bouquets of yellow Marconi daisies were Miss Carolyn Calhoun and Miss Van Morris, bridesmaid and maid of honor, respectively. Mrs. James H. Dorrough, cousin of the bride, was charming as she carried an arm bouquet of golden ranunculi and golden angel feathers to harmonize with her aqua dress and matching slippers. The only ornaments worn by the attendants were tiny gold baby rings worn on narrow black velvet ribbons in shoker fashion around their necks. These were gifts of the bride.

Immediately preceding the bride was Miss Angel Courtney, flower-girl, wearing a miniature wedding dress of white satin and lace similar to that of the bride.

Miss Courtney carried a basket of yellow daisies.

Entering on the arm of her father, Mr. Courtney R. Norris, the radiant bride was a vision of loveliness in a creation of French imported lace and blush - pink satin. The closely-fitted bodice of lace extended into long gracefully tapering fitted sleeves embroidered at the points with seed pearls and into low points both front and back deeply into the satin skirt. Dozens of gleaming satin buttons fastened entirely up the back to the wired collar which stood in petal points around the face of the bride. Of unusual design was the satin foundation for the bodice cut in stiffened points. A full skirt and sweeping train of satin completed this model designed by the bride's mother. From a tiny Dutch cap of satin fell a finger-tip veil of imported illusion. For something old Miss Norris chose a fan belonging to her mother covered with antique ivory lace and topped with a yellow - throated orchid and show-ers of hyacinth flowerets. Following custom she also added to her new costume, something blue and a shiny dime in her satin slipper.

Groomsmen were Mr. W. L. White, best man and father of the groom, Mr. James Calhoun, Mr. Elton Larkin, Mr. Benny Dumas and Mr. George Wisterman.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Norris chose a pure silk shantung in a delightful shade of aqua, fashioned with a fitted jacket and trimmed with an aqua rhinestone star. Orchid accessories and a spray of vanda orchids pinned to a brocade bag completed her ensemble.

Mrs. White, mother of the groom, wore a mauve lace dress complemented by a mauve hat and navy accessories. At her shoulder she pinned a corsage of vanda orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. White are both graduates of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. Mr. White also received his M. A. degree from Peabody College in Nashville, Tenn. Mrs. White was affiliated with Alpha Chi Omega, social sorority, Sigma Tau Delta, honorary English fraternity; Blue Jackets; and was selected Dream Girl of Pi Kappa Alpha in 1951. Mr. White was a member of Pi Kappa Alpha, social fraternity; Phi Mu Alpha, honorary music fraternity; Philharmonic Society; and others. He is now stationed in Fort Dix, N. J. with the United States Army.

School Hillers Make Plans For First Annual Dance

On March 27th, the KNOE School Hillers will have their first annual Hillers dance on the Frances Hotel roof. Plans are underway to make this first dance one to really remember by all school Hillers.

The dance committee members are: Emmelyn Albritton—Farmerville High School, Sammy Danny—Neville High School, Lynn Merriman—Ouachita Parish High School, Jackie Adcock—Rayville High School, Vincent Marsala—St. Matthews High School, Betty Ann Elberts—St. Matthews High School, J. Cloyd Walker—Rayville High School and Jo Ann Carso—Neville High School, serving as chairmen. The committee has just announced that the theme for the dance will be "Harbor Lights." Their plans include many decorations which will carry out the theme.

One of the main features of the Hillers dance will be a grand march in which all ideal girlfriend and boyfriend candidates for the 14 participating high schools take part. Another feature of the dance will be two broadcasts from the dance on the roof over KNOE on which the candidates will be interviewed and couples attending the dance will be introduced.

Sleepy Spears and his orchestra will furnish the music for the Hillers dance, which will be from 8-12:00 p.m. Any high school student wishing to get an invitation for the dance can contact his school Hillers representative at his school.

Bowden-Latham Vows Pledged

A profusion of white flowers, including Easter lilies, gladioli, and stock, backed by Southern smilax, formed the background of the altar of the Ferriday Baptist church when Miss Dorothy Jean Latham, daughter of Mrs. William M. Latham and the late Mr. Latham became the bride on Saturday evening at seven o'clock, of Wayman Bowden, son of Rev. and Mrs. E. Bowden of Homer, La.

The Rev. Dick Griffin officiated at the impressive wedding ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. William Latham, Jr. She had as her maid of honor Miss Olla McLemore. The other attendants were Mrs. Warren Rodden and Mrs. Harold Viola of Tallulah, La.

Mr. George Perry served as best man and the ushers were: Messrs. Jerry and Theodore McLemore. Mrs. Mary Frances Spinks sang "Because" and "Oh, Promise Me." She was accompanied by Mr. Thomas Latham, brother of the bride, who played soft nuptial music during the ceremony.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the annex of the church. Mrs. William Latham, Jr., sister-in-law of the bride presided at the bride's book. After a short honeymoon they will make their home in Ferriday.
